Over 200 factories in Holland are closing owing to the coal shortage. Many others are on half-time.

The disturbances continue in Amsterdam. Food is practically exhausted, and potatoes are very scarce.

12 DAYS' SALE
AT THE MODEL STORE, BROADWAY.
BUT YOU ARE SURE TO PAY MORE AFTER THE SALE.
5 DAYS TO GO.

Why are you sure to pay more after the Sale? Because hourly the costs are increasing, and daily we receive quotations, and regularly meet the sellers of almost every line of goods, to find that nearly all quotations give evidence of staggering increases. In many instances we are asked to restock at wholesale prices higher than we are asking during our 12 Days' Sale. We know the extraordinary Sale Values we are offering cannot be repeated. We bought large stocks when prices were low, and are willing to hand on those exceptional values during the remaining five Sale days. Stocks offered at such low prices do not last long. Promptness is urgent; buying to-day is wise, when such savings can be effected.
Buyers of the following lines will find they have saved money:—

caught a party of tourists on a lake in Scotland, and threatened to capsize the boat.
When it seemed that the crisis had really come, the largest and strongest man in the party, in a state of intense fear, said: "Let us pray."
"No, no, my man," shouted the bluff old boatman; "let the little man pray. YOU TAKE AN OAR!"
Which, by the way, was probably the best way to turn both their services to account.
To-day we are offering some useful shopping and travelling requisites, and we shall not offer any protest if a little man chooses to buy a big hamper or a big man prefers a small one. They're here in all sizes and shapes—the only things uniform about them being their quality and the moderate prices asked.

MATTING SUIT CASES.
Strongly bound with leather, leather corners, best quality, and well finished.

MARK FOY'S "FAIR" STILL PROCEEDING.

For many thousands have flocked to its BUSY COUNTERS we hardly like to say; how many tens of THOUSANDS have benefited by the BARGAINS it has disposed we HARDLY DARE to guess.

MARK FOY'S FAIR.

From the time it commenced till now there has not BEEN A SLACK HOUR, nor any break in the CONTINUOUS STREAM of Buyers who flocked to swell the BUSY THRONG.

SALESMEN AND SALESWOMEN, HUNDREDS OF THEM;

Carts, Packers, Porters, and Cashiers in scores, to say nothing of Shopwalkers and Sectional Managers, kept the fun going each day, while in another and most important department, a huge number of CARTS, VANS, and MOTOR CARS found as much as they could do to deliver the parcels of Goods resulting from EACH DAY'S TRADE. These things, and many others, were, and are, the outward and visible signs of

PEOPLE'S VERDICT

IN FAVOUR OF

MARK FOY'S "FAIR."

PITT-STREET HORDERN'S FEBRUARY BARGAINS

are very much "worth while." Look, for instance, in our Pitt-street Dress Window at

TWO VALUES IN COTTON DRESS GOODS

that are altogether unusual, even in this time of "Sales." Number one is a line of

ROMAN STRIPE CREPE,

the brilliant colours effectively arranged and dependably dyed. There are three different effects, all handsome and up to date. USUALLY SOLD AT 10½d PER YARD. REDUCED TO 6/11 PER DOZEN. Number two is an offering in that deserves the description of "Best Yet." All the colours are good—Ecru, Saxe, Navy, Vieux Rose, Nattier, and White; the quality is sound and reliable. THEY ARE ALL DOUBLE WIDTH, and yet, despite rising prices, they are all REDUCED TO 8½d PER YARD. We have barely enough for two days' selling, so please don't delay.

BRITISH DYED CREPES

HOW HAVE YOUR

WINDOW DRAPINGS

STOOD THE SUMMER SUN?

If you have relied on the dependable and graceful Fast Stitch Nets for your drapings, then you will be more than satisfied with their wear; but in case you had other makes, and now need something more reliable and up to date, see those which we are sure you will find entirely the best and most satisfactory of any window draping in the market. We hesitate to say how very many thousand yards we have sold, but never an inch has disappointed.

FAST STITCH NETS are 54 inches wide, in twenty distinct and beautiful designs, each an improvement on any other now offering, and are sold at

ONE AND NINEPENCE PER YARD.

A WONDERFUL BOY BARGAIN.

Here is one of those "Very Seldom" offers that only a big stock and a busy business make possible. We have about 150 to fit boys from 7 to 14 years, built of sound and sightly English Tweeds, and well made and finished. The Coats button high (exactly right for the colder weather that is coming); the vests have step collar.

COATS AND VESTS

THESE ARE WORTH ANYTHING UP TO FIFTEEN SHILLINGS TO MAKE TO-DAY, but to rush them out before our new goods come tumbling in from the factory, for the two garments.

WE ARE CLEARING THEM AT

FOUR AND ELEVENPENCE

and find it a Store clean and full of the Merchandise people want—with a service that is Right Now at its best. It stands out from every viewpoint as a—

THE FIRST WORD OF THE 1917 CARACULS AND VELVETEENS.

When old "King Cold" comes this way, with his satellites "Jack Frost" and "South Wind"—you'll rush to the nearest store for a good Winter Coat, and, in all probability, be asked to pay stiffly for it.

Why not buy the Makings NOW—at Snow's—and get Old Time Caracula, or old-time Velveteens, at old-time prices? Later on, when the 1917 new shipments arrive, you'll have to pay heavy increases. Let the future hold what it will—To-day we're selling the belated Indents of 1916 Caracula, all good, clean stock of genuine quality, reliably dyed.

50in WIDE, 12/11, 13/11, 14/11, AND 18/11.

(Now Showing on the First Floor.)

CORDED VELVETEENS, in wide or narrow cords, full stocks for children's wear and ladies' wear.

SPORTS COATS, etc, 2/3, 2/6, and 2/11 yd.; also a fine hollow-cut CORDED VELVETEEN at 3/11½ yard.

All good colours may be had in the CORDED VELVETEENS at Snow's.

WE HAVE CREAM CORDED VELVETEENS! They deserve special mention, being scarce as scarce can be. And, believe us, they'll be favourites this year again, more so because they are scarce. Everyone will want them later on. BUY THEM NOW AT SNOW'S, 27in wide, 1/11½, 2/6½, and 2/11½ yd. Snow's is a happy hunting ground for thrifty shoppers.

CHAPTER XVII.—Continued.

About the fifth day he went back to town, arriving under cover of the darkness and driving to Portland Place for a bath and a change. He noticed that his hair needed cutting. His man was with the other servants at Holmehurst. He sent for a barber and had it cut. He had had nearly a week's bristle on the skin that was usually so fresh and clean. He allowed the barber to shave him. His hand shook as though he had been drinking.

When he emerged from these matters of the toilette he had a sparse, clean air as though he had been scourged bare. He walked out of his house with the intention of asking at South Audley-street if Mrs. Venning was at home. The time had been so interminably long since the news came—only five days ago!—that anything might have happened. And he had to call at the War Office. It occurred to him suddenly that the War Office might have news. But no, surely they would have let him know at Portland Place if anything further had happened.

While he waited to see someone in authority at the War Office he glanced at the "Times." The casualty list was not long. Information was slow in coming in. We were still retreating. Suddenly a name leaped at him out of the list. Malvern. The bridegroom of a few weeks ago was wounded—seriously, but not missing. Poor little Ida! It was better for her than if she had chosen Rupert.

Malvern was in hospital in Paris. So much he was able to ascertain. There was no news of Rupert. While they talked some news came in. The tide seemed to be turning. The French had rallied. Wonderful man, Joffre—had the Judge ever seen him? A heavy, elderly man. No one could have believed in his military genius.

Rupert must have been picked up by the Germans, unless he had managed to crawl into cover somewhere and find shelter later among the friendly peasants. There was nothing but to wait in patience, said his old friend, Oliver, at the War Office.

The Judge went off to South Audley-street. When he came within sight of the familiar hall-door there was a taxi standing before it with a pile of luggage atop. He noticed as he came up that the house had a forlorn, neglected air. There was dust on the windows and the window-boxes had been forgotten. It was as dreary as his heart.

Before he could knock at the door it opened, and Mrs. Venning and Ida came out, dressed for a journey.

"You have heard?" said Ida piteously. She was as wilted as a flower caught in a bitter storm.

"My poor friend!" Giulia caught his hand in a close clasp, while tears welled in her beautiful Italian eyes. "I was on my way to you. We only heard yesterday about Rupert. We were at the Cottage. Why did you not come to us?"

"Ah!" he said, "I am very glad Malvern is not missing, not a prisoner. Imagine what it is to be wounded and a prisoner! You are going to Paris?"

"This poor child! She could not wait for news. You will say it is madness, that we shall arrive to the occupation if we are not held up."

"There will be no occupation," said the Judge quietly. "I have come from the War Office. At this moment Von Kluck's army may be surrounded, cut off. I am coming with you. There is no time to be lost."

Paris was indeed saved. The Sisters of St. Vincent de Paul, whose hospital had been taken over for the Red Cross, were quite sure that it was St. Geneveve who once again had sent back the Hun from the gates of Paris. Malvern was doing well, considering the severity of his wound. The Judge established the two ladies in a quiet little hotel close to the hospital, with a courtyard which showed ranges of windows with green outside shutters. In the midst of the courtyard was a statue of St. Roch, with his dog, between orange trees in green boxes. The hotel had once been a convent. Still it turned its back on the world and wore a conventual air.

When he had settled them he hunted about for information concerning Rupert. He visited the hospitals in Paris. He interviewed innumerable officials. He was always being sent on further, handed from one to another, who might possibly help him, never finding help.

He searched the battlefield of the Marne, fumbling amid the ghastly relics of the fight. "It has happened," said the painstaking official who accompanied him, "that they have crept out of sight, the wounded—under hedges, in the little woods, anywhere where there was shelter. Neither your service nor ours, monsieur, is as yet expert in discovering those unfortunates. It is sad when you discover one who has plainly lived for days after the battle."

So the search was long and fruitless. There were so many things which might have happened to Rupert. The War Office was doing all possible in those distracted days. The Judge had friends in many embassies who were tapping all the sources of information.

Meanwhile Malvern was doing well, and, as Ida said joyfully, yet trying to keep her joy within bounds because of the Judge, he was going to be out of it for quite a long time. After that long time—the war might be over. . . .

"Who knows but the world may end tonight?"

She was only ashamed, she said, and suddenly burst into tears, of being so much more fortunate than others. Oh, how she longed, how she prayed, for good news of Rupert; and all the poor things. Oh, it was wicked for her to be glad.

The Judge waited till Malvern was well enough to be brought home for convalescence. It was likely to be a tedious business—an injury to the knee being much more troublesome than the wound, which had healed rapidly. He waited on to make the journey easy for them—to ensure that Malvern should do nothing imprudent on the journey.

They were back in England by the time the Law Courts opened. The Judge had lost his old fresh colour and his old bonhomie. His hair had whitened. He walked without the old buoyancy. His face had taken on a new sternness, and his fine grey eyes seemed as though they looked inward at something cold and sad. People said that the blow which had fallen upon Beauclerk had made him look his age. He walked now as though his shoulders carried a burden. Some one, more imaginative, said he had a look as though he were chilled to the heart.

CHAPTER XVIII.

THE JUDGE IS QUIXOTIC.

The year dragged on to its intolerable end. The New Year came with disaster and went on with its record of loss and suffering. The streets began to be full of black-clad people, their faces feverish with pain. This man and that man of the Judge's friendship and acquaintance suddenly assumed a new dignity and went his way with bowed shoulders and an air of proud grief. This woman and that woman, who might have been slight and worldly in those far-away days, became suddenly transfigured, and walked through life with a light before and behind them, such as martyrs wore of old.

The world began to bear the common burden, and, while it staggered beneath it, had become strangely noble. The days of grief were holy days. Stripped of all else, the hearts of men and women seemed to have found God.

Spring, with Neuve Chapelle and the fight for Hill 60, and Richebourg, and many a lesser fight, followed winter, and long ago the War Office had reported Rupert "Missing, believed killed."

The Judge put on no black for his son. No customary tokens of mourning were permitted. He went his customary round. Not even Giulia Venning knew if he had yet any hope. He had said to her once that he envied those who knew the worst from the beginning. After that he spoke no more of his trouble, but his face was deeply lined; his eyes, when he forgot to keep watch over himself, were tragic. The ploughshare of grief had gone over him. With the radiant youth that was Rupert's had passed his father's splendid prime. The Judge was an old man.

Only at his work did he show sign of failing. In Court his mind was as keen as ever, his dominant will still impressed the weak and the evil-doer. While he listened to witnesses and counsel he sifted the evidence as of old with unfailing keenness. His eyes, sunken usually, came out of their deep sockets, and searched men as of old. Somewhat to his surprise, his work still held him. He said to some one one day that when all else flew from Pandora's box not Hope was left behind, but Work. "Work," he said, with an understood application to himself, "may solace even those who are beyond Hope."

Long ago Malvern had gone back to his regiment. It was in the week of the landing at Suvla that Ida's little son was worn. With tears Giulia had brought the baby for the Judge to see, a small, crumpled red face, surmounted by a black down, little fists strenuously reaching for and grasping what they could find.

"VERY GOOD EDDIE."

Dick Rivers' smart remark, "When it comes to sticking, I've got Mr. Postage Stamp licked!" might be applied to all the artists concerned in the new musical comedy at the Palace Theatre on Saturday night, in the sense that they stuck to their work with an insistent buoyancy that ended by lifting the piece into assured success. "Very good Eddie," written by Philip Bartholomew and Guy Bolton, with lyrics by S. Greene, is founded on the American farce, "Overnight," but in the result the story is gradually submerged in the billowy breakers of song and dance. It was, therefore, from the aspect of catchy revue that the audience tolerantly applauded its cleverly presented nonsense, and enjoyed with enthusiasm two or three really charmful musical pieces. Jerome Kern, a composer new to this country, scores very skilfully in the ragtime rhythm he very generally prefers, and a capital combination of artists who reach us from America infused harmonious gaiety into every number.

The production represented the first effort of Messrs. J. and N. Tait in this particular direction, and coincided with the re-opening of the redecorated play-house. This pretty little theatre has been tastefully adorned, with a beautiful new silk curtain of a stone-coloured tone, profusely designed with trailing hand-painted roses, and filled by a crowd of accustomed first-nighters afforded a brilliant spectacle. At the end of the evening an almost unexampled presentation of flowers was followed by speeches from Mr. E. J. Tait, to whom belongs the credit of successfully forming the company in New York, and Mr. Barry Lupino. The latter's humorous character-study as Eddie was supplemented by admirable work as producer. Hits were made by Lillian Tucker, a stately fair-haired beauty-actress and singer, of refined and engaging personality, and Fayette Perry, a dainty and diminutive artist of fairy grace, who played neatly and well.

The story opens on board "The Catskill," a Hudson River boat, on which Eddie and Georgina Kettle are taking their honeymoon trip, as also Percy and Elsie Darling. The four friends become separated, with the ultimate result that Percy and Georgina are left behind, and Eddie is forced by public opinion to pass as the husband of Elsie, and to spend some embarrassing hours with her at the Rip Van Winkle Hotel before the other two, both furiously jealous, arrive by the next boat and accept the guileless explanations of these "Babes in the Wood."

This title was applied to a fascinating duettino in the style of berceuse, simply and tenderly rendered by Mr. Lupino (Eddie) and Miss Perry (Elsie). A feature of the new season will doubtless be the excellent orchestra under Mr. Robert Keers, and the poignant sweetness of several successive chords, the 'cello obbligato to the vocal theme, and the variations on it by the flute, were all noticeable in an ensemble which led to repeated encores. Mr. Lupino drew consistently the portrait of Eddie as a lisping youth in a brown suit and an absurd straw hat accustomed to do as he was told, and incapable of explaining to the other passengers that Elsie was not his wife! His uneasiness at the supper-table, and his growing exhilaration under the effects of "a cocktail with a kick in it," were naturally and amusingly shown; and his little "shepherdess in porcelain" was well to the fore with him in the ensemble "Wedding Bells are Calling" at the end of the first act. The comedian contributed an exquisite solo dance, with entre-chats, in the old ballet style, at the end of the evening.

Emily Fitzroy, whose early girlish career dates back to George Rignold's tenure of Her Majesty's, but who last visited Australia for the production of Henry Arthur Jones's "The Hypocrites," was warmly recognised on her reappearance here after a few years' absence. As the formidable and domineering Georgina, before whom little Eddie trembled, the actress exactly hit off a character too often exaggerated beyond all bounds in farcical comedy. Mr. George Whitehead was well-placed as the other mis-sorted husband, masterly and large; and the hotel-clerk's inquiry, "Say, are you two St. Bernards going to take a room?" caused roars of laughter. Al. Cleveland, the casual and sarcastic clerk in question, introduced John Beck, a tall, loose-limbed comedian of rugged countenance, quietly easy and unconcerned in his artistic method. Mr. Beck resembled the Lone Fisherman of the long ago in being an acquired taste, but his talents were cordially recognised as soon as he was thoroughly understood.

Lillian Tucker (Elsie Lilly) and Andrew Higginson (Dick Rivers) were assigned juvenile leading roles as young lovers, in which the scope for acting was slight, but the musical opportunities were many and varied. Miss Tucker was sometimes hampered by the limited range and ragtime accents of her music, but she made the success of the evening in the duet (with Mr. Higginson), "Nodding Roses," with valse refrain, which liberated her upper register, and enabled her to reveal a cultivated vocal style. At the end of this captivating duet, the soprano, instead of descending immediately to the key-note, rose to it through the interval of a seventh, a device frequently resorted to by Charpentier, notably in the romance "Depuis le Jour" ("Louise"). These artists also won acceptance in the duet and chorus, "On the Shores of Le Lei Wi," another number which, in spite of recurring patches of weak dialogue, will draw the town; and in the duet, "I Love Them All" (thrice encored), in which again a well-trained chorus brightly assisted. On the side of eccentric comedy, outstanding features were the acting of Mme. Matroppo, by Nan Taylor (originally the bitter old aunt in "Bunty"), as a gracious and comely woman of the world, in place of the usual impossibly amorous, ugly spinster of burlesque; and Alfred Bristowe, as a mercurial Frenchman, who pronounced upon Eddie's supposed elopement, "Il n'y a rien de plus charmant dans le monde!" Miss Daisy Revette as Victoria Lake, Mr. Lionel Walsh (stage manager) as the purser, and Mr. Charles Pope as the coloured steward, should also be mentioned.

"INTOLERANCE."

The evolution of every great branch of activity of the human race is marked at intervals by certain events which stand out as milestones. In science these milestones are the supreme discoveries of Newton, and other epochs in literature and art are marked, generally, by the genius of a single man. The motion-picture industry occupies the peculiar position of being a mixture of art and science—or rather applied science. In this connection D. W. Griffith's great production "Intolerance," the showing of which opened at the Theatre Royal on Saturday evening, may justly be regarded as a milestone. Following on the pioneering work of such men as Dr. E. J. Morey in the 'Eighties, and Edison in the 'Nineties and later, "Intolerance" must be regarded in this light, inasmuch as for the first time it has reconstructed the past on a colossal scale. The incredible magnificence and immensity of the Babylonian scenes make one share what must have been the producer's great pride of achievement. For the greatest thing that can be said about "Intolerance" is that, having seen the production, one has lived for the brief space of an hour or two with a great civilisation at the dawn of history. Audiences cannot fail to have had impressed on their minds an idea of that past which the combined genius of a thousand historians would fail to give them. Griffith is a great realist, and he has not spared the feelings of audiences in impressing on them the spirit of decadence and sensibility which led to the fall of Babylon, or the lust of blood which ran riot on a long-ago St. Bartholomew's morn, resulting in the massacre of the Huguenots. It is, in fact, only on the plea of creating atmosphere that excuse can be found for the gruesomeness and realism of many of the scenes. Horror was present all through the piece, and in that ghastly scene with the hangman, at the close of the modern story, the tension would have completely broken in the audience if the producer had followed realism to its logical conclusion, and hanged The Boy.

Regarded from the dramatic point of view, rather than from the spectacular, "Intolerance" lags behind the producer's last effort, "The Birth of a Nation," which was strengthened by a fine plot. Briefly, "Intolerance" is built on a theme, that of intolerance in love, religion, everything, during four ages—the present, France of the middle ages, the day of Our Lord, and the dim past of Babylonia. There is a parallel working-out of the four themes. Dramatically the modern strike story is the strongest. The remaining three are mostly spectacle. Thus, it is only in the strike tale that much scope is given to the actors. In this Mae Marsh plays the Dear One, and Robert Harron the part of The Boy. The former is well known already to Sydney audiences as a charming and accomplished film player. Her work in "Intolerance" has raised her to the rank of a great actress, whose art can not be questioned. Robert Harron has also done the best work of his film career. In the Babylonian story Constance Talmadge stood out as The Mountain Girl; and others warranting particular mention were Seena Owen and Tully Marshall. In the French story Margery Wilson, as Brown Eyes, commanded most attention, and Josephine Crowell gave a fine study of Catherine de Medici. "Intolerance" is a great work—the greatest of its kind, and those interested in the progress of the times cannot afford to miss it.

Mr. Gustave Slapoffski conducted the orchestra, which played a special score.

"Intolerance" will be shown at the Theatre Royal twice daily.

AMUSEMENTS.

"THE ORCHID."

The revival of "The Orchid" at Her Majesty's Theatre on Saturday night proved a judicious move on the part of the management. The house was crowded to its capacity, and the musical comedy was received with all the honours of a first performance, even in the matter of encores, which, indeed, were at times somewhat too persistent. Nothing of the original beauty of the setting was wanting, and once more the audience enjoyed the harmony of the rich and varied colour-scheme of the costumes and the complete efficiency of the reproduction by the Royal Comic Opera Company of the music of Ivan Caryll and Lionel Monckton.

Miss Florence Young again furnished a bright and amusing interpretation of the role of Caroline Vokins, a lady of pronounced matrimonial intent in search of the mystical "Rupert," who, though merely a gardener at the Horticultural College, has concealed his identity under an alluring matrimonial advertisement. Meakin, cleverly played by Phil. Smith, is the elusive one, and the "doubling" of the gay deceiver in order to escape capture provides much of the amusing business, which kept the house in a condition of incessant merriment. Minnie Love played delightfully as Lady Violet Anstruther, and among other songs scored heavily with "Little Mary." Ethel Cadman, too, did good work as Josephine Joy, and much appreciation was shown of her song, "Bird of Love Divine," and her contribution to the duet, "I Must Propose to You." Other musical numbers which were also enthusiastically received were "The Lady Secretary" (Miss Nellie Payne and chorus), the quartette "Marriage Lines" (the Misses Ethel Cadman and Minnie Love and Messrs. Holland and Roberts), the duet "Fancies" (Miss Florence Young and Mr. Roberts), "Advertisements" (Miss Florence Young), and "The Unemployed" (Holland and Smith). Clyde Cook was in his natural form as the fiery Frenchman, Comte Raoul de Cassignat, and introduced the eccentric "Scarecrow" dance with great effect. There are only three changes in the previous cast, namely, Messrs. James Hughes (Aubrey Chesterton), Percy Clifton (Zaccary), and Alfred Andrew (Registrar). "The Orchid" will run until Friday, with the usual Wednesday matinee.

THE CITY ORGANIST.

At the Town Hall on Saturday night the city organist, Mr. Ernest Truman, commenced his recital with the "William Tell" overture, which the late W. T. Best included in several of his programmes when he came from England to "open" the organ, before the appointment of our first city organist, the late Auguste Wiegand, in 1891. In addition to the Rossini music, Mr. Truman drew largely upon his operatic resources, with the result that the audience had the pleasure of hearing Gounod's "Faust" overture, the intermezzo from Meyerbeer's "L'Africaine," the "Caro Nome" air from Verdi's "Rigoletto," the finale of the first act of Sir Arthur Sullivan's "Iolanthe," and the Bridal Procession Song and Letter Scene from Puccini's "Madame Butterfly." The plaintive humming of voices with orchestral accompaniment, at the close of the second act of "Madame Butterfly" was cleverly imitated on the organ, and recalled the first Australian performance of the opera in this city in 1910, under the direction of the late Mr. Henry Bracy. Mr. Truman played the Puccini "Humming Chorus," the "Salve Dimora" from "Faust," and "The Lost Chord" as extra solos. The Chopin Nocturne in E flat and Tschaikowsky's "Sleigh Ride" were warmly applauded programme numbers. By way of appreciation of Miss Minnie Love's charming singing of the song during the run of "The Cinema Star" at Her Majesty's Theatre, "The Broken Doll" was sprung as a surprise after the playing of the "Faust" overture.

BEECHAM'S PILLS

may be relied upon, at all times, to exercise a tonic, cleansing, healing influence upon the digestive organs. A sensible use of this well-known specific is generally all that is needed to relieve and remove those disorders of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which are always associated with dyspepsia in any form. Beecham's Pills are unfailing as a corrective and invaluable as a safe stimulant of that important organ, the liver, upon the efficient action of which so much depends. As a cure for constipation and for removing its attendant discomforts and dangers there is no more reliable remedy. In fact, as an aid to health generally, the judicious use of Beecham's Pills is strongly recommended. They are

A BOON TO ALL.

Prepared only by THOMAS BEECHAM, St. Helens, England.

Sold everywhere in boxes, labelled, price 10½d (36 pills), 1/1½ (56 pills), and 2/9 (168 pills).

REINFORCE YOUR HEALTH

Most people realise that life is an arduous campaign in the prosecution of which their "fighting force" frequently suffers serious depletion. "Reinforcements" become necessary to replace the wastage of energy and to ensure the "war" being waged with success. The first step to take to reinforce the health is to clear the system of the debris with which it is clogged owing to the sluggish action of one or more of the organs governing the functions of digestion and elimination. This will be most easily and satisfactorily accomplished

BY TAKING

one or two doses of Beecham's Pills, which act as a gentle, yet efficient aperient. It usually happens that no other medicine will be required, for Beecham's Pills, in addition to possessing valuable aperient properties, are also an excellent tonic medicine, which will be found to thoroughly "reinforce" the general health. Remember that "Staying power" wins—that the battle in these days is more than ever to the strong, and remember, too, that nothing will contribute to your enjoying your full plenitude of vigour and vitality like

BEECHAM'S PILLS.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

BUDDING FRUIT TREES.

The budding of fruit trees usually may be carried out very successfully at the present time. During January and early February the trees are in good condition for working, as the sap is flowing freely, and the bark lifts readily, permitting the easy insertion of the buds. As far as growers are concerned, the operation of budding is rather confined to the reworking of mature trees than to the working of young stocks. No matter how carefully the grower has selected his fruit trees originally, it will almost invariably be found that when the orchard comes into bearing there are certain trees that for one reason or another do not bear as well or as regularly as others. In such cases these trees can, with advantage, be rebudded to varieties that have demonstrated their utility and profitableness under those particular conditions, and there is little doubt that the average production of our orchards could be materially increased by the reworking of what for want of a better word we may term "drone" trees. There are many orchardists in New South Wales that are spending time and money in pruning, spraying, manuring, and cultivating trees that are not profitable. In Southern California this matter has been the subject of continuous investigation for a number of years, and the conclusion arrived at as a result of those tests are well worth the consideration of our fruitgrowers. It was found that about 25 per cent. of the orange trees in that State were unproductive and undesirable from all commercial standpoints. Had those trees been replaced by trees of even average production, the return per acre would have been increased by from £20 to £25.

The first essential to cutting out the worthless trees and replacing them with profitable ones is, of course, a system of accurate records that will show the actual performances of individual trees over a number of years. Californian growers who have tried the system of keeping individual tree records have not the slightest doubt as to their practical utility, and are convinced that the information that such a method discloses is well worth the extra trouble. It may be urged that such a system would absorb some of the already overburdened grower's time, but the question is, Does it pay to spend large sums of money in all the operations connected with caring for trees that are not profitable, when by the expenditure of a little time and money they may be replaced by trees that will not only pay for their upkeep, but increase the grower's profits as well? Dairy farmers have actually increased their returns by cutting down their herds after testing the cows, and it is questionable whether fruit-growers could not do the same if they knew the trees to cut out and the ones to retain. At any rate, growers should not be slow to consider a means whereby they can eliminate the unprofitable trees, and, by reworking to better varieties and strains, improve the quality and increase the quantity of the fruit grown in their orchards. Undoubtedly one method by which this can be done is by selecting the parent tree from which budding wood is to be cut with the greatest care. Only trees that have demonstrated their bearing capabilities should be chosen, and by this means an effort made to perpetuate the desirable characters. Whether individual tree records are kept or not, one thing is certain, and that is that buds should be taken from trees that have actually proved their value to produce regular annual crops of high-grade fruit. Well-developed buds should be chosen in preference and as a general rule medium-sized shoots will be found to yield the best buds.

The operation of budding is in itself simple and easily learned; that is, no doubt, the reason why it is resorted to for working stocks rather than grafting. Budding is also more economical of wood than grafting, and it may be carried out during the spring, summer, or autumn, while grafting is usually confined to the spring. The operation of budding is the cutting of a bud from one tree—known as the parent tree—and inserting it under the bark of another; so that the resultant tree will be of the same kind, and, to a larger extent, continue the strain of the parent tree. That explains the necessity for care in selecting the parent tree. As stated, the present is a very good time for budding, but a cool, fine day should be chosen for the work. Hot, windy, or wet days cannot be expected to yield the best results. In the case of young stocks, the buds should be inserted about 4 or 6 inches from the ground; but if, as is usually the case, old trees are being reworked, the buds should be inserted in the main arms, close to the trunk. The positions for the buds should be chosen with a view to producing a uniform and evenly-balanced tree. The under-side of the limbs is usually the best place for the buds, as this causes the branches to spread, and avoids crowding of the centre. It must be remembered that it is always desirable to keep the centre of the tree as open as possible, as this not only permits the entrance of light, but induces the circulation of air. In turn, this greatly assists the formation of fruit spurs, and helps to produce even ripening and colouring of the fruit in the head of the tree. The operator should be armed with a sharp budding-knife and bud stocks cut from the current season's growth of selected trees only. In hot weather these should be wrapped in damp bagging so that the buds will not dry out.

First of all an incision in the form of a T, about an inch in length, is made in the stock. The bud is then cut from the stick with an upward movement. The bark on both sides of the T incision is then slightly lifted, and the bud is forced down into its place. It is then firmly tied in place with raffia or waxed calico. It should be tied both above and below the bud, and tight enough to keep the bud firmly in its place. When the wrapper should be removed will depend upon the growth of the bud but at this season of the year at least a fortnight will usually be required. After the buds burst into growth the stock or the limbs may be cut back to within a few inches of the buds and, to prevent the young shoots being damaged or broken off by the wind, it is as well to secure it to this projection for support.

FRUIT WASTAGE.

Mr. A. Boot, general secretary Fruitgrowers' Association of N.S.W., writes:—Mr. Wooller has hit the nail on the head if he failed to find anyone else doing so. Cool storage, canning and jam factories (under growers' control), and an up-to-date system of marketing and distribution are the three things most needed to prevent a glutted market and avoid that dreaded receptacle of surplus supplies—the tip. Allow me to say, for the information of Mr. Wooller, and fruitgrowers generally, that the executive of the Fruitgrowers' Association of New South Wales are not indifferent to the pressing need for organising in order to obtain the means for securing much-needed reforms in the industry. Local associations in various parts of the State are being approached with an earnest appeal to come in and take a hand in organising fruitgrowers into one solid body. At our next meeting we trust to secure the services of a gentleman who will enter upon a vigorous campaign of organising, and we feel quite confident that instead of counting our membership by hundreds, in a short time it will be by thousands.

NEW REAPER-THRESHER.

CULCAIRN.—A demonstration of a new reaper-thresher, the invention of Mr. H. S. Taylor, a farmer at Henty, was recently held on Messrs. Morrison's farm. There was a large gathering of farmers and agents. In the test it picked up a much weather-beaten crop, and did not leave a head anywhere. The comb is made adjustable to be set to any width, according to the crop and condition of harvest. The knife works in a slot on a cutting plate on the adjustable comb tooth, making the cutting certain. In place of a reel and canvas conveyor, two spirals with a double screw each do the work perfectly, thus doing away with wear and complication. From the spirals the heads and straws are taken to the thrasher by means of a float elevator, which works automatically on springs, allowing any quantity of stuff to pass under same with ease. From this elevator the straws and head are fed into the threshing drum by means of a fluted roller. The drum is of the English type, with ten threshing bars, and on each end of the drum fans are arranged, thus doing away with the extra fan drum and bearings, and saving space which is most important. From the thresher drum the heads and straw are thrown on to the straw walkers, which pass the straw on, leaving the grain and chaff fall on to a tray, which conveys it back to the front of the riddles by a cranking motion. The machine is very simple and strongly constructed, with very few chains, and all drives are direct, three chains, one belt, three sets of level cogs, and spur drive on thresher. The main drives are from an internal and external segment, thus causing no middle wheels to be required. The trial was thoroughly satisfactory in every way. At Grenfell, Wyalong, and Inglewood (Vic.), excellent tests have taken place. At the former, before Christmas 4½ bags had been taken off a portion. Three bags were allowed for hail. In the interval between there had been 5in of rain and hailstorm over the crop. The Taylor reaper-header went on the crop and took seven bags off, or 2½ more bags per acre than the other machines. This crop was also bad with star thistles, Scotch thistles, and turnip, and had wild melons growing over the top of it.

LIVERPOOL SHOW.

The annual show of the Liverpool Agricultural Society has been fixed for March 30 and 31.

STOCK STATISTICS.

BATHURST.—Official figures compiled by the local Pastures Protection Board authorities show that during the past year, while horses and cattle have increased throughout the district, there is an appreciable falling-off in sheep. The stock inspector for the district, Mr. C. R. Brett, attributes the increase in cattle to the attraction of high prices in the market. The decrease in sheep is explained by the inability of owners to restock after having sold earlier in the season. "The prices now ruling are looked upon by many as prohibitive," says the inspector. The returns furnished by owners to the P. P. Board, augmented by the estimates of those failing to send in the information, show that the district is carrying 14,000 horses, 25,000 cattle, and 512,000 sheep. The inspector remarks that there has been an abundance of food during the past season, due to the abnormal rainfall, and the prospects for the current year are also good; but he is afraid that any considerable fall of rain during the autumn would induce considerable trouble and losses from fluke and worms in sheep.

WATTLE BARK.

REPORT OF FORESTRY COMMISSIONER.

In view of some prominence given in the Melbourne press to the small production of wattle bark in Australia, the Chief Forestry Commissioner (Mr. R. D. Hay) has furnished a report at the request of the Premier (Mr. Holman).

Mr. Hay states that "in order thoroughly to test the possibility and profit of wattle growing under the most favourable conditions the Forestry Commission has under preparation an area for its cultivation at Twofold Bay, near Eden, where the advantages of cheap transport by water exist, and where there is a sufficient extent of suitable country set apart for forestry to produce wattle bark to meet the whole requirements of the State, if it can be proved to be a profitable enterprise under existing conditions."

Mr. Hay states "That the production of wattle bark in Australia has gradually declined during the past 15 years is well known, but the reasons for it are not, and the fact that South Africa is now largely supplying Australian wants in tan bark from indigenous species of wattle introduced into that country is very frequently criticised as showing a lack of enterprise on the part of Australians. When the differing circumstances are investigated it will be seen that, however regrettable the fact, the Australian producer of wattle bark is unable to compete with the South African production, and as he has a better market for his labour in other productions and in other directions, he has ceased to take the risk.

"Wattle is a precarious crop to grow. It is very easily destroyed by fire, and it requires to be continuously protected during the six to eight years which is the rotation for producing it. In Australia, with a dear labour market, the cost of production (i.e., enclosure, cultivation, protection, stripping, etc), apart from the risk of complete loss by fire, ranges from £4 to £5 per acre, while in South Africa, with cheap coloured labour, it averages from 30s to £2; and the African producer, with a sparsely-forested country, has an additional advantage in a firm market for his timber for fuel and other purposes after the bark is stripped, whereas in Australia with a plentiful fuel supply, wattle timber is practically unsalable.

"There are other contributing causes, such as the rabbit pest, high cost of transport, and, in some parts, the attack of beetles and borers, which have led to the decline of local production, but the main facts are that cheap labour, low over-sea freights, and the value of wattle timber as a by-product enable the South African producer to sell in the Australian market at a price which does not popularise local production."

ULMARRA BUTTER FACTORY.

GRAFTON.—During the past half-year the Pioneer Dairy Factory, Ulmarra, manufactured 330 tons of butter, an increase of 151 tons on the same period of last year. The amount of second-class butter was 9¼ per cent. of the output. Shipments to London totalled 3486 boxes. The number of pigs slaughtered was 2337, and the turnover for both the butter and bacon departments totalled £58 803. The profit amounted to £1350, and out of this a 6 per cent. dividend was declared.

REMEDIES THAT SHOULD BE IN EVERY HOME.

Hean's Essence

The Great Money-Saving Remedy for COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, CATARRH,
And other Chest and Throat Troubles.
Costs 2/—Makes 1 Pint—Saves 10/.

Many thoughtful parents and friends are sending HEAN'S ESSENCE, the great money-making Remedy for Coughs, Colds, and Throat Troubles, to our gallant soldiers, among whom the effects of a neglected cold are almost as much to be feared as the enemy's shot and shell. Evidence of how greatly HEAN'S ESSENCE is appreciated by men in the trenches is afforded by scores of them writing to their home folks asking them to be sure and enclose some HEAN'S ESSENCE in the next parcel. Many soldiers write direct to the manufacturer for supplies of this wonderful cold-arresting preparation. In this regard the following correspondence is both interesting and convincing:—

France, August 26, 1916.
Mr. G. W. Hean.
Dear Sir,—I beg, on behalf of myself and mates in France, to testify to the great benefit we have derived from the use of Hean's Essence, which has earned great fame here in the trenches as a preventive and cure for colds. Will you please send along six bottles, as it gets very cold here in the winter months, and we would not like to be without your great remedy.
Yours truly,
W. H. MOSTON.
15 Coy., Australian Engineers, 5th Division A.I.F., France.
P.S.—If you would like my photo, you can get one at 18 Hargrave-street, Sydney.

The half-dozen bottles of HEAN'S ESSENCE ordered by Sapper Moston were duly despatched, and the following acknowledgment from him and his mates has just been received:—
On Active Service, France, December 16, 1916.
I received your parcel safely containing the six bottles of Hean's Essence, for which I wrote a few months back, and I thank you for having attended to my request so promptly. I opened the parcel in the dug-out, and when the boys saw that it contained Hean's Essence I can tell you they just rushed me for it. Through being in the wet trenches so much, and having to go about through frost and snow when out of the trenches, heavy colds are very prevalent just now, and the Hean's Essence could not have arrived at a better time. In fact, we considered it a most welcome Christmas box.
I remain,
Yours faithfully,
Sapper W. H. MOSTON.
P.S.—The following men, having been lucky enough to get some of the Hean's Essence sent to me, desire to place on record their appreciation of your wonderful preparation, to the good qualities of which they testify by attaching their signatures, as follows:—

Each bottle of HEAN'S ESSENCE, when diluted and sweetened according to easy directions supplied, produces a pint of superior quality Cough and Sore Throat mixture. A pint of ordinary remedies would cost at least 12s. HEAN'S ESSENCE costs only 2s, and is obtainable from all leading Chemists and Stores, or by post from G. W. HEAN, Manufacturing Chemist, 178 Castlereagh-street, Sydney.

Hean's Tonic Nerve Nuts

The Modern Home Remedy for
Headaches, Backache, Insomnia, Dyspepsia | Anemia, Hysteria, Breakdown, Depression | And other Neurasthenic Conditions

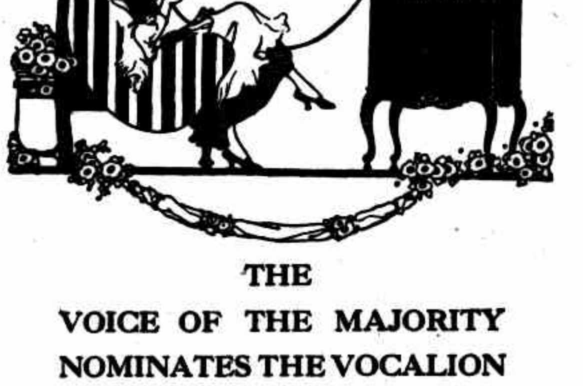

EXPERIENCE OF MISS KEMP,
The World's Greatest Horsewoman,
WAS AFRAID OF HER OWN SHADOW.
Now Delights in Riding Equine Outlaws.

A remarkable case of a woman's transformation from a bundle of nerves to a human packet of indomitable courage and endurance is that of MISS KEMP, the famous lady rider of buckjumpers and hurdlers, whose recovery is convincingly told by herself in the following letter:—
Parramatta-road, Camperdown.
Mr. G. W. Hean, Chemist.
Dear Sir,—
I have much pleasure in telling you of the wonderful benefit I have derived from the use of HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS. Some seven months ago I was in such a nervous condition that I dreaded coming in contact with the average horse, and the least surprise or excitement would bring on palpitation of the heart, and cause me to tremble from head to foot. Because of the great good Professor Kemp had derived from the use of HEAN'S ESSENCE, after an attack of bronchial pneumonia, I decided to try HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS for my nerves, feeling sure that you would not have placed on the market a nerve preparation that was not equal in merit for its special purpose as your ESSENCE is for chest troubles. I am delighted to be able to say that my best expectations have been fulfilled, for, after having used about half-a-dozen bottles of HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS, I am enabled to return to my old calling, riding jumpers and buckjumpers, and instead of being afraid of my own shadow, so to speak, I look forward with pleasure to a tussle with the most desperate equine outlaw that anyone can bring to me. As an expression of my gratitude I purpose, with your permission, naming one of my favourite jumpers "Nerve Nuts," and I am sure he will become as great a favourite with the public as is the remedy after which I am naming him.
I remain, yours faithfully,
(Miss) MARY KEMP.

Besides being effective health-builders, HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS are very economical, a box containing 12 days' treatment costing only 3/, or six boxes for 17/3. Smaller size containing six days' treatment 2/ per box. If they are not stocked by your chemist or store, send direct to the Manufacturer,
G. W. HEAN, Chemist,
178 CASTLEREAGH-STREET, SYDNEY.

THE SUBMARINE PERIL.

There is abundant proof that in meeting the submarine peril the British people will rely on their own resources, and are confident in their being sufficient. The new Minister for Agriculture will carry out the measures which were foreshadowed when he was appointed. More land will be devoted to agriculture, so that there will be an increase of production, and a maximum price will be fixed, so that in Great Britain at least there will be no gambling at the expense of the consumer. By his two measures Mr. Prothero will help to make the United Kingdom more nearly self-contained, and will make a large section of the population more contented. The rise of prices of foodstuffs in England during 1915 probably owed as much to the increased demand of the army as to any other cause, including excessive freights and the closing of the Dardanelles. But it was attributed by many influential speakers to the hoarding of merchants and the gambling of farmers, and the resentment caused by this impression was deepened at the end of last year and the beginning of this. Mr. Prothero's decision will make all classes accept their sacrifices more willingly when they realise that they are being shared by the whole community. The farmers will console themselves by knowing that in the demand for men they have had equal consideration with the shipowners, and more than any other industry. A proportion of farm hands has been allowed to postpone enlistment, and numbers of artisans have been sent back to the dockyards to work on the construction of ships. It is a sign of the national organisation that this should be so, since, apart from the navy, the nation must be protected by the farmers, who grow food, and the ships which carry it, and the merchandise to pay its cost. On the prospects of the Navy both Admiral Bacon and Mr. Pretyman speak with authority, and both are confident. They can appeal to the records of earlier campaigns with perfect confidence. The submarine menace which was launched with as much assurance then as now, and with considerable initial success, was completely overcome. The Navy will be trusted to attack the new danger with the same result. But the British people will remember that entirely new plans must be devised and applied before success can be expected. The new submarines will be just as much disturbed by the fire of a merchantman as the old were by the collier Wardle outside Newcastle, and the Clan Lindsay and Clan Macfadyen in the Bay of Biscay. But they operate on the high seas, at greater distances from a base; they will be more speedy in their methods, and they will be far more numerous. The enemy evidently expects to attain some result worth having before the Navy will have found some means either of destroying their submarines or escorting allied and neutral merchantmen. They regard that result as worth the risk of war with the United States, not merely of the dismissal of their Ambassador. It is impossible to believe that they can now suggest any means of restoring their relations with the United States short of the abandonment of this policy. President Wilson has delayed taking decisive action for so long that he must recognise soon that the champion of the rights of neutrals is not the United States, but Great Britain. But he cannot accept any compromise of the position taken up in his message to Congress, which has now been approved by the Senate. He may trust that when the conditions laid down by him are fulfilled his intervention will be supported by the sympathy for the Allies which, in spite of their neutrality, large numbers of American citizens have felt throughout the war.

FEDERAL POLICY.

The negotiations of the past few weeks have imposed a very high standard of conduct on the members of the incoming Federal Ministry. In the interval between their assumption of office and the ensuing general election they will furnish their constituents with material for deciding why so many conferences were necessary and why they were so prolonged. If the coalition carries out the objects for which it is generally welcomed, the electors will be open to the conviction that the subject on which the delegates disagreed was on the best means of strengthening the Administration. If it does not, then they may very likely retain the impression that a settlement was delayed mainly through the need of conciliating irrepressible selfish ambitions. The objects for which this coalition was desired by the general body of electors were two: To secure the adequate representation of Australia at the Imperial War Council, and to enable the government of the country to be efficiently carried on during the absence of its Prime Minister. The first of these objects was secured in principle as soon as a majority had been persuaded that Mr. Lloyd George's invitation had made an immediate general election impossible. When that was done, the Prime Minister was at liberty to take the privileges and responsibilities to which he was entitled. All that remained for him to do was to select a colleague from the larger section of his followers if, as seems probable, the Imperial Government are prepared to admit more than one delegate from Australia. The War Council will discuss the method in which Australia can best contribute its resources to the Allies during the war, and may determine the lines on which the organisation of the Empire may continue in the future. It will settle no constitutional questions, but it is bound to influence them both by its direct suggestion and through the terms of peace. But, though the Council may suggest or arrange the means by which Australia may do its share in the near future, it cannot affect our immediate action, which is all-important. It will be for the new Ministers, without the Prime Minister, and possibly without his colleague, to infuse vigour and efficiency into all the departments, and especially into those connected with the war. We know now that we can help the Empire in many ways: By rigid economy, by the dispatch of foodstuffs and war material, by sending workmen to the factories as well as by reinforcing our own troops.

It follows that waste or delay in the Defence Department is a failure of duty not only to ourselves but to our Allies. It also follows that the value of our contribution will depend on the action of other departments as well. Every Minister will know that he is helping to win the war when he insists that the country gets full value for its money, that its expenditure is limited to necessary objects, and is then carefully supervised, and that its servants are guided by the lessons of experience, whether of war or of peace. If the new Ministers act on these lines they will have justified the formation of a coalition and will have cleared themselves of the charge of allowing personal interests to become uppermost in time of war. Their opportunity will be shared by the Opposition. Mr. Tudor's followers have declared that, though they will take no part in a coalition, they are as patriotic as anyone else. Their professions can be thoroughly tested in opposition. When so many millions are to be spent, a critic can do good service if he desires to improve the Administration and not merely to harass the Government. Mr. Tudor is unfortunate in some of his followers, who seem to have forgotten the elementary conditions of our existence, that we owe our freedom to the British Navy, that we are at war, and that when the war is over we shall still be a very scantily defended prize in a covetous world. But it is still possible to regard them as the eccentric products of a national movement and to recognise that even in war time an Opposition may do useful work in criticising Administrative acts and insisting that legislation shall be the act of Parliament as a whole and not merely of the Executive.

WAR LOANS.

The fourth issue of the Australian war loan in Australia is a triumphant success. With experience gained from three previous issues a high standard was set, and that standard has already been exceeded by a quarter of a million sterling, which there is prospect of increasing to two millions sterling when all returns have been received. The success is the more striking inasmuch as there were circumstances which worked against that success. The wool money has yet to be received, and the wheat money has not yet come in. That means another fifty-six millions to the community, and although a great deal of that vast amount will be used in liquidating the indebtedness of the recipients a very substantial sum will remain which can be put to no better use than subscribing to our war loan. A goodly proportion will have been received by March, and probably the Treasurer counted on this when he decided to extend the time for closing subscriptions to the end of that month. The decision is an evidence that the response exceeded official anticipations, and the Treasurer, discovering that the people are in the mood, wants to get as much as he can. As to how much he can take there is some conflict of view among the authorities. The Treasurer himself says that he can take, including the sum subscribed to this issue, twenty-nine millions. The prospectus quotes twenty-six millions. Probably many small subscribers who would have desired to contribute to this issue found themselves debarred owing to having three instalments of the August issue yet to pay, together with income taxes and municipal rates. By the end of March, however, they will know better how they stand with regard to their liabilities, and will so be more inclined to assume additional risks.

In making comparisons with former issues the striking point is that the individual subscriptions of a million each now number four, compared with one in the first loan. The honour of claiming the million subscriptions belongs to this State; and of the eight largest subscribers six control their business from our capital. More than ever Sydney can claim to be the financial centre of the Commonwealth. In this issue New South Wales heads the list of subscribers. In other issues Victoria had done so. This is an evidence that to the three previous loans small subscribers were more numerous in Victoria than in New South Wales. Where their possessions are concerned the salary-earning and the wage-earning people of Victoria have always been more venturesome than the people of this State. Mining ventures, because gold-mining has been carried on more systematically in that State, have always had more support from the small man in Victoria than in New South Wales. So the people of that State are more habituated to dealing in stocks and shares. When the appeal to take up war loan stock came along it fell on ears in Victoria educated to dealing in kindred matters, and the education needed was not so elementary as among the same class in this State. But our education has accomplished its purpose, and, as befits its preponderance in population, the mother State holds the most subscribers to the latest issue of the war loan. The financing of employees by their firms in order to enable the wage-earner to take up bonds has had its educative influence besides bringing in money to the loan which would otherwise have been spent unthriftily. Many have confessed that they have not noticed the deduction from their weekly earnings, and others who have noticed it have not found it difficult to forego the little luxuries which the deduction represented. The way having once been opened to them they have resolved that it will not always be the savings bank which will hold their savings.

For war purposes Australia has raised from her own people almost seventy-seven millions sterling. But this is not all our war indebtedness. We have borrowed from the Imperial Government forty-nine millions, so that up to the present the war has added one hundred and twenty-six millions to our debt, in addition to what it has cost in the way of taxation. While, too, the appeal has been made to us to subscribe to our fourth issue, the appeal has been made to the people of the United Kingdom and to all British possessions which have not war issues of their own to subscribe to the third British issue. For over twelve months now the war has been financed by Britain with short-dated loans. It is recognised that the time has come to fund this immense floating debt and to get fresh funds for the future. So the appeal is made to ensure that the subscriptions, which close on Friday, shall make up a sum which shall carry on the war till victory is won. The enthusiasm for the loan there is being organised systematically, and cities and towns are vieing with each other in sending in subscriptions. As showing the immensity of the sums offered there have been single subscriptions in multiples of millions; one even of twenty millions. The spirit which prompts such an outpouring and pledging of the Empire's wealth in all quarters is the spirit which is steadfast in its resolve to carry the war to one conclusion—to such a conclusion that the nations under the Flag will have peace for a century to come.

WAR WORK.

ACTION IN NEW ZEALAND.

PREVENTING LABOUR INTERRUPTIONS.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.), Sunday.

Regulations have been gazetted, empowering the Government to proclaim any wharf a Government wharf under a controller, who may keep off undesirable persons, and providing penalties for interference with the loading or unloading of goods, or the despatch of a vessel. It is also pointed out that a regulation is in force providing a penalty of £100, or twelve months' imprisonment, for every person who conspires with any other person to prevent, delay, or otherwise interfere with the despatch of any vessel.

Interviewed on the subject, the Attorney-General (Mr. Herdman) said: "If Britain and her Allies are to be victorious, troops must be sent to the battlefield regularly and expeditiously. The people of England must be provided with food, and at a time when the mercantile marine is being ruthlessly wrecked by the enemy, ships cannot be allowed to remain idle at our wharfs. Such a state of affairs would be intolerable. The position is much too serious to allow any troublesome section of the community to dominate the situation and decide for New Zealand whether she shall or shall not be allowed do her share of war work. The Government must firmly and quietly insist that war work shall be diligently and speedily performed. At such a time as the present no self-respecting Government can allow the business the country to be interrupted by any section of the community which may imagine it has a grievance. The State has already provided a means by which the rights and wrongs of bodies of persons alleging unjust treatment can be investigated. I am convinced hundreds of waterside workers and coalminers in New Zealand are not in sympathy with what may be an organised attempt to hold up the business of the country. The responsibility for the present discreditable position I place upon the shoulders of a few mistaken leaders. I exonerate the great bulk of the men from blame."

Very little work was done on the Wellington Wharfs on Saturday, most of the vessels remaining idle. Free labour is working the ships at Napier. The crews and firemen of the lighters have struck work as a protest against free labour working a small coastal vessel, as also have the carters, who were asked to assist.

The Women's National Reserve have been asked to pick fruit, in order to release growers for wharf work. The Farmers' Union is organising voluntary labour.

The Waterside Workers at Gisborne have refused to work a vessel which was loaded by free labour at Napier.

"WORKERS' THOUSAND."

LABOURERS FOR BRITAIN.

A number of inquiries have been received by the "Herald" from men willing to enrol in the "Workers' Thousand"—the thousand strong men required in Great Britain. A large number are willing to register themselves in Sydney, but they have been unable to find any particular officer to whom they should apply.

It has now been arranged by the Federal authorities that the Railway Commissioners in each State will assist in selecting men, who should be between 21 and 50 years of age, and used to hard work. Applicants should send their names to the secretary of the Railway Commissioners, and as soon as detailed application forms are received they will be forwarded to them.

PERSONAL.

The Chief Justice, Sir William Cullen, with Lady Cullen, returned to Sydney yesterday from a holiday in Tasmania.

Mr. Joseph Cook, leader of the Federal Liberal Party, left Sydney for Melbourne last night, after spending the week-end at his home.

Concern has been widely felt for Mr. George L. Goodman, the well-known theatrical manager, since Monday, when he was taken ill at his home in the Bayswater-road. On Saturday Dr. Bullmore called in Sir Alexander MacCormick, and the case being pronounced one of appendicitis, the patient was removed to St. Vincent's private hospital, with a view to an operation to-day.

Mr. Francis Wilson, of Sydney, who has been appointed secretary and manager to the Victorian Alliance in Melbourne, will take up his new duties on March 1.

On attaining 20 years of service in the capacity of Clerk of the Tasmanian House of Assembly, Mr. J. K. Reid, was presented with an address and a handsome gold watch, at the close of the parliamentary session. The presentation was made by the Speaker, Mr. J. W. Evans, and the Treasurer, Sir Elliott Lewis, as one of the oldest members of the House, referred to Mr. Reid's service in laudatory terms. Reference was made in the address to the fact that he was the senior officer amongst those holding similar positions in the several States of Australia.

Mr. H. P. Woodward, assistant Government Geologist, Perth, died on Thursday, after a short illness. Deceased was a son of the late Dr. Henry Woodward, at one time a director of the British Museum. He went to Western Australia in 1888 as Government Geologist, and held that office for 10 years, when he joined the firm of Bewick, Moreing, and Co. He rejoined the geological department in 1904.

MUNITION WORK.

SYDNEY MAN'S EXPERIENCE.

WONDERFUL WOMEN WORKERS.

Mr. Marcus Welch, who was a student in the Sydney University, but volunteered towards the end of last year to go home for munition making, and is now in H. M. Factory at ——, gives, in a letter to his father in Sydney, an interesting insight into the work he is engaged on, and pays a high tribute to the women workers in Great Britain.

Under date December 24, 1916, he writes:—"We had a great trip over but struck a bad patch in the Bay. One of the boats was smashed as well as minor accidents. There was no sign of submarines, but we had to wear lifebelts all day long, even down to meals. We landed on October 26, and left next day for London, first-class carriage reserved. At London we were put up at a big hotel, all expenses paid, and 10s a day extra as allowance. Our stay was too short to see much as we had to leave for here on October 31. We're just across the border although part of the factory is in England. It covers an area of 18 square miles, but, of course, is not closely built on in case any particular section goes up. This gives the rest a chance. When fully completed it will be the largest munition factory in the world.

"Practically all the work is done by girls, and it would be impossible to get a finer lot of workers. The only time they grumble is when they can't get sufficient work to keep them busy. The men, on the other hand, are chiefly slackers. Many are home service men, and all are unfit for the army. I refer to the operators and workmen. They are used on any particularly heavy work, though, really, there is little the girls can't and don't manage. The girls are also employed as mechanics, and wear khaki trousers and red jerseys, with Wellington rubber boots. They also oil the motors, etc., and their only defect is their lack of initiative. They come from all classes of society, these girls, and in handling them one has got to be very careful to avoid any semblance of bounce. They are much like the Australian soldier in this respect. You've got to suggest things to them, otherwise they threaten to resign, but as I said before as workers they go till they drop. They earn about 25s a week, of which 12s is deducted for board. They are housed, as are the men, in hostels, each holding 72, and presided over by a matron with four or five servants. All food is issued from a central kitchen, and is sent out to canteens in the works and heated there by steam for the meals necessary during shifts.

"We're working three shifts throughout each 24 hours, and when a shift turns out at 5.45 a.m. in pitch darkness in the cold and rain one swallows a cup of coffee and catches a train at 6.24, as we're about half a mile from the station. Although we are living in the factory—in fact, about the centre of it—it is five miles from our hostel to the particular spot where we work. The train is in darkness, too, but we find our way to the compartment reserved for the staff and crowd in. In every carriage the girls are singing. They're always singing; when they've just come off a nine hour's shift, and are tramping home through the mud you can still hear them singing.

"By the time one reaches one's destination," continues Mr. Welch, "it is getting light, and the train, with its miniature engine, comes to a stop, and everybody tumbles out, the girls 'clocking-on' after the Bundy principle, while the staff signs on. The girls change into their 'D.B.' clothes—i.e., clothes provided for them when in the danger buildings. We have issued to us oilskins, sou'-westers, and rubber boots, reaching to the thighs. This will give you some idea of the weather and the conditions generally. Fortunately I brought a pair of my military boots with me. They are just the thing. If the day is bad we put on our gum boots, and then go round for breakfast, dropping all our matches, tobacco, etc., at an office en route. Meals are served in canteens, simply halls with tables and forms in them. All the food is sent out ready cooked from the central kitchen, as no fires are permitted on the place.

"At 7.30 a.m. the shift starts, and the girls who have been going all night troop off to change and get back to their hostels and bed. The next shift is of seven hours' duration, from 3.30 p.m. till 10.30 p.m., and the third, and worst, shift, from 10.30 p.m. till 7.30 a.m.—a nine hours that is no joke when it is blowing half a gale, with sleet thrown in, and a temperature down to 30 degrees.

"Our training was only a few days in our particular line, such as gun-cotton drying or cordite-making. We rank as foreman chemists, each in charge of a row of stores, and each with about 50 girls under us. As regards salary, there may be some chances of increase later; at present salaries are not particularly brilliant. Still, it is Empire work and luck, and the future may bring an increase. We pay 18s a week for board, and all travelling is free, so that our expenses are practically nil. We were paid from the day of embarkation, and when travelling on business we get an allowance of 10s per night, besides the free fare. It is a great experience, and being experience in actual work is of far more value than that given in the laboratory. This huge factory is being built to last, and even the end of the war will not see it closed down."

BRILLIANT SCHOLAR KILLED.

LIEUT. W. E. PIKE.

Mrs. J. W. Pike, of Strathfield, has been notified by the War Office, London, that her son, Lieutenant William Edward Pike, B.E., died of wounds in France on January 31. Lieutenant Pike was one of the three Sydney University graduates nominated in 1915 for commissions in the Royal Engineers, and left Australia in November of that year.

The deceased officer, who had a brilliant academic career, was educated at Burwood Superior Public and Sydney High schools. He entered the University in March, 1910, after having gained a Peter Nicol Russell scholarship in engineering, and graduated in March, 1914, with first-class honours and the University Medal in mechanical and electrical engineering. In 1915 he gained a scientific research scholarship to enable him to undertake research work in mechanical engineering, and last year he was awarded the Walter and Eliza Hall engineering travelling fellowship, his tenure of which was to be postponed until after the war.

GREAT SOLAR STORM.

VIOLENT MOVEMENTS.

Mr. Walter Gale, president of the New South Wales Branch of the British Astronomical Association, writes:—"A great solar storm is now in progress. It is manifested by the very exceptional circumstances of two sunspots, visible to the naked eye. Of course, a suitable dark, or smoked, glass must be used in order to see them.

"The area affected is of vast extent, exceeding 120,000 miles in longitude and 2000 millions of square miles in area, upwards of 20 spots being involved. Most violent movements are taking place within the disturbed region, accompanied by the formation of great ridges of glowing matter.

"The principal spot, on the western limit of the group, showed signs of breaking up during Sunday, two immense bridges of the brilliant photosphere commencing to form during the day.

"Magnetic storms upon the earth and displays of the aurora frequently accompany these solar outbursts, indicating an intimate connection between the magnetic condition of the sun and that of the earth.

"There are also half a dozen small spot groups showing on the sun's northern hemisphere, two of which are notable on account of their latitude, but their interest is quite overshadowed by the great southern storm."

OVERSEA MAILS.

Letters and packets for Expeditionary Forces abroad will be received at the General Post Office up to 5.30 p.m. to-day. Mails for the United Kingdom will close at 5.30 p.m. on Wednesday.

WAR CABINET.

COALITION NEGOTIATIONS.

SELECTING THE NEW MINISTRY.

A DIFFICULT TASK.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Saturday was an off-day as far as the Federal political situation was concerned. The Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes) did not come into town, and the leader of the Liberals (Mr. Cook) was in Sydney.

With an understanding arrived at between the leaders, the rank and file seemed to have lost that keen interest which was so much in evidence during the past few weeks. The next event of any moment is the meeting of the two parties on Tuesday, when the agreement arrived at between the committees appointed to draw up a plan for the coalition will be brought forward for acceptance. There is no doubt whatever that the Hughes party will accept the arrangement without discussion, but there will be some of the Liberal party of the opinion that much better terms might have been forced from the Ministerialists. However, there is little doubt that the proposals put forward by Mr. Cook, Sir John Forrest, and Mr. Glynn will find favour with the majority.

With the acceptance of the terms of the coalition, there will have to be a new Ministry, and it is here that the next difficulty is to be expected. The Prime Minister, who broke away from the caucus system of having his colleagues selected for him by the party when he formed his last Ministry, will again exercise the right to choose those whom he likes to sit with him in Cabinet. His four Ministers will most likely be found to be Senator Pearce, Mr. Jensen, Mr. Bamford, and Mr. Poynton. Mr. Webster, who stuck to his chief during the conscription campaign, while other Ministers obeyed the call of the leagues and left him, would no doubt have had a big chance of being in the new team but for the fact that Mr. Hughes, Mr. Cook, and Senator Millen, who are regarded as certainties, all come from New South Wales, and it would never do to have any of the States over-represented in the Cabinet. The same applies to Senator Lynch, who was one of Mr. Hughes's most valiant supporters. He, no doubt, will have to be sacrificed to make way for Senator Pearce and Sir John Forrest.

On the Liberal side it is fairly easy picking as regards four—Mr. Cook, Sir John Forrest, Mr. Glynn, and Senator Millen. Selecting the other two will provide a difficult problem with such men to pick from as Sir William Irvine, Mr. W. Watt, Mr. Groom, Mr. Chapman, Mr. Sampson, and Sir Robert Best. It is not known yet how the Liberals will be selected, whether by the leader, Mr. Cook, or by the caucus method, which has been so bitterly opposed in the past by the party.

THE LIBERAL LEADER.

The leader of the Federal Liberal party, Mr. Joseph Cook, spent the week-end at his home in Sydney, returning to Melbourne last night. When interviewed prior to his departure, he stated that at the present juncture he did not desire to comment upon the Federal situation.

P.L.L. OPPOSITION.

The Daceyville branch of the Political Labour League has carried the following resolution:—"This league is opposed to the formation of any so-called National Government having as an object the prolongation of the life of the Federal Parliament during the war, unless an opportunity is given to the electors to express their opinion on the question."

THE NORTH COAST.

GLOWING WITH PROSPERITY.

CHIEF SECRETARY'S VISIT.

"I have no hesitation in saying that it is one of the finest districts that I have ever seen," declared the Chief Secretary, Mr. G. W. Fuller, when seen yesterday after his return from the North Coast, which he visited for the purpose of opening the annual show at Alstonville, held this year in support of the Repatriation Fund.

"It was the first time that I had had an opportunity of visiting the Northern Rivers district, although I have been invited there many times," said Mr. Fuller, "and when I got to Alstonville I could almost have fancied that I was in one of my old South Coast towns by the number of people whom I met who had gone there from the Illawarra district and helped to make the Richmond River what it is to-day. I found the district glowing with prosperity; everybody was speaking of the magnificent season that they were having, and of the big cheques that they were receiving from the factories. The dairy cattle at Alstonville show were magnificent, and I doubt whether it would be possible to see a better lot anywhere. When I say that I of course except the show at Kiama, in the Illawarra district, where I think there is the best exhibition of dairy cattle to be found anywhere. Mr. G. Nesbitt, M.L.A., very kindly arranged a trip through Eltham, Clunes, and the Wilson's Creek district, and I found it to be the finest I have ever seen in my life; I cannot imagine anything better. I visited the Government experiment farm at Wollongbar, and was shown round by the manager, Mr. Haywood. While there I saw the Cheddar cheese in process of manufacture, and I must add that it is about the nicest cheese that one could procure."

Referring to his visit to Lismore, Mr. Fuller expressed great gratification at the enthusiasm of his reception. "Mr. Nesbitt and the Mayor," he said, "described the civic welcome in the council-chambers as the most representative gathering that they had ever seen in those chambers, and I took this as a compliment not only to myself, but to the Government which I represented. I inspected the hospital at Lismore, and it is undoubtedly a very fine institution. The management is as good as could be desired, not only as far as the committee is concerned, but also the medical and nursing staffs. There is a sum of £400 required in connection with the new morgue, and, although we are passing through difficult times, I shall do my best to get it for them, because I think that they are entitled to it. It was promised by my predecessor, and they have expended a sum of money on the erection of the building on the understanding that the Government would reimburse them to the extent of 10s in the £."

LABOUR SHORTAGE.

MINERS OFFERED 17/ PER SHIFT.

BROKEN HILL, Saturday.

The Broken Hill mining companies are again complaining of the shortage of men, especially since the re-opening for production of the British and Junction North mines. Men most in demand are competent miners, truckers, and general labourers. Late pay-sheets show that the miners averaged over 17s per shift; truckers receive 11s 3d in wages and average over 14s on contract; and general labourers received 11s 3d per shift. There is a 44-hours' week in operation.

All the mines are now at work, but necessarily some are working short for want of men.

DEATH OF MR. E. S. ANTILL.

The death occurred at Horsley, Smithfield, on Friday, of Mr. Edward Spencer Antill, fifth son of the late Major H. C. Antill, of Jarvisfield, Picton, and uncle of Brigadier-General J. M. Antill, aged 84 years. On Wednesday last his sister-in-law, Mrs. Jessie Hassall Antill, widow of Mr. J. M. Antill, passed away in her 83rd year.

"MAGNIFICENT."

RESPONSE TO THE WAR LOAN.

MR. DENISON MILLER'S VIEWS.

"It is magnificent," said Mr. Denison S. K. Miller, governor of the Commonwealth Bank, referring to the response to the war loan.

"Magnificent not only from the financial standpoint, but from the standpoint of a united effort to safeguard Australian interests while helping to win the war. The figures which are published in to-day's 'Herald' tell their own story. I mean the figures in the statement by the Commonwealth Treasurer. As Mr. Poynton announced, the public has subscribed more than the £18,000,000 which was asked for. The splendid support from all classes of the community is to me the most gratifying feature of this war loan. There is, perhaps, more significance in the large number of applications by persons in the ordinary walks of life than in the applications by wealthy men and public companies and associations.

"The public," Mr. Miller went on to say, "is evidently being educated in methods of war-loan investment which were not understood in some quarters 18 months ago. The increase in the number of applications in New South Wales shows that the people of this State are now alive to their responsibilities and their obligations. They realise, or are beginning to realise, what they should do in providing sinews of war in the shape of money, which is necessary for the equipment and maintenance of our soldiers at the front. Many more millions will be required before the war ends. Still I have no doubt that the people of Australia will respond to every call that is made upon them, willing as they have shown themselves to be to share in the perils of the British Empire, and to lend their aid in bringing about a victory which will mean the preservation of their freedom and their institutions. So long as we have good seasons, with large quantities of wheat, wool, meat, metals, and other products which are necessary to the carrying on of a war of this magnitude, so long will Australia be able to play her part financially in the defence of the Empire."

Mr. Miller explained that arrangements had been made so that soldiers in England or at active service might participate in the war loan if they desired to invest any of their money in this manner. Only Australian soldiers are allowed to make applications in England. These applications are still being received.

TIME LIMIT EXTENDED.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

Applications for subscriptions to the war loan will be received on the terms included in the prospectus up till Wednesday next, February 14. This decision was made known this morning by the Federal Treasurer (Mr. Poynton), who, however, added that after that date there would be a slight adjustment of interest. This alteration was being made on the ground that it would not be fair to put belated subscribers in the same position as those who had sent in their deposits at the proper time.

Mr. Poynton said that advice of a large subscription of £200,000 made by the State Savings Bank of Victoria had not reached him in time for inclusion in his announcement of yesterday. In addition to its own subscription, the savings bank had done good work in securing no less than 6832 applications from the public for an amount of £508,780.

THE HEROIC DEAD.

MR. COOK ON THE WAR.

A roll of honour in connection with the Auburn Brotherhood was unveiled yesterday afternoon by Mr. Joseph Cook, M.P.

"While we are gathered here in these peaceful surroundings," said Mr. Cook, "the whole world beside is in deadly strife and peril. Old things—old institutions, old methods of social advance and organisation—are disappearing, going down in the convulsion of war. Men are dying daily in defence of ideals which the race has held dear. Everywhere almost the deadly grapple is going on, and we here, in these happy southern climes, see nothing of it all—happy people despite all our grumbling and social unrest and disquietude. Our first thought should be one of profound thankfulness for the fortunate lot which is ours."

The honour board, however, proceeded Mr. Cook, reminded them that all could not escape the tide and surge of the catastrophic upheaval. A price must be paid for peace. That price—a heavy one always—a supreme one in many cases—was being freely tendered by these brave, heroic boys. A great German once said the Germans were "the greatest asses in Christendom." How true this description was to-day. First, perhaps, in these days of organisation, first in strength and science, perhaps also in learning; proud indeed they were, but, withal, asses enough to turn this earth into a veritable hell. Let us cherish our great heritage, and let it nerve afresh our arms to fight. We must keep our ideals ever high and strong. Our Christian civilisation never meant more and never stood for more than it did to-day. In this war we asked nothing for ourselves. We began it to help others not so fortunate and not so strong. As one of our great war writers put it, Great Britain had staked the British Empire to nothing in a material sense. To-day we were helping others to help themselves, placing all our resources at the disposal of those who are fighting for these ideals in the smaller countries of the world. Our past in this respect was a glorious one, and we hoped our future might always be. If these ideals should ever grow dim, the world would grow dark indeed. These considerations should make us determined to fight on until they have been made safe and secure.

"In this connection," added Mr. Cook, "a fact needs noting. The ideals of liberty and freedom we claim for ourselves we concede freely to others. If we seek an illustration of this, we need look no further than the present policy of frightfulness now in progress on the high seas. And what a ghastly toll it is—84,000 tons for three days! How was this made possible? The answer is simply because Great Britain allowed the German navy to develop, when she could have effectually prevented it had she been so disposed. What other nation, with our strength on the seas, would have permitted it? Our very tolerance has made it possible for Germany to be the pedlar and the pirate she was and is. Never had the freedom of the seas been so secure as when the great British navy was strongest and most supreme."

ENGINEERS AND THE WAR.

THEIR SERVICE FOR THE EMPIRE.

"The splendid achievement of the British artillery on the western front during the 'big push' was undoubtedly due to a great extent to the ingenuity of the pattern-making section of the engineers in the great gun factories in England," declared Mr. F. Thornton, chairman of the Federal Council of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, on Saturday, when unveiling a roll of honour to fallen heroes who had enlisted from the New South Wales branch of the society. The value of the real part the engineering fraternity played in the war, he continued, could not be overestimated. Perhaps it was just a word dropped here and there, but it was largely from the every day suggestion of these men engaged at their benches and lathes that the greatest gun inventions sprang. The pattern-makers came next to the draftsmen, and were responsible for the fashioning of the wooden and iron moulds of the greatest guns the world had ever seen, and which, when matched against the best that the Germans could produce, had more than held their own.

The result of the British artillery's work in the last big offensive in France, he added, had proved that the skill of the men in Vickers and many other armament makers' works in the old country was superior to anything that Krupp's could produce. Over 300,000 engineers were engaged in Great Britain making armaments; over 15,000 of them were employed in the munition factories, and 40,000 were on active service, mostly with the Royal Engineers. The members of the society in Australia, numbering 15,000, were playing their part no less in the great fight for liberty; many of them had enlisted, one of these being Private Arnold, of the Morts Dock and Engineering Company, who had received the D.C.M. for distinguished conduct at Gallipoli.

Mr. W. Padgen, president of the district committee, emphasised the fraternal spirit which marked the history of the society and its unquestioning loyalty to the cause of the Allies.

FIFTEEN MORE VICTIMS

WESTERN FRONT

RENEWED ACTIVITY

Germany is about to despatch a Note to the United States suggesting means for avoiding possible hostilities.

It is stated that while the ruthless submarine campaign continues President Wilson will flatly refuse to discuss the question.

Fifteen more vessels have been sunk by submarines, including seven Norwegian vessels and four British.

A Berne message says that it is a universal article of faith in Germany that England will be reduced to starvation within two or three months.

Successful raids have been carried out by the British on the Western front. Unsuccessful attacks were made by the enemy on the new positions eastward of Sailly-Saillisel.

WESTERN FRONT.

AERIAL ACTIVITY.

LIVELY ARTILLERY DUELS.

LONDON, Feb. 11.

Sir Douglas Haig, in his midnight report on Friday, stated: We carried out successful raids east of Vermelles and south-east of Ypres. Many dugouts were destroyed. The enemy's attempt to approach our lines south of Armentieres was stopped by our barrage and easily repulsed. Our artillery caused two explosions in the enemy's lines.

In a later report Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig says: The enemy attacked the new positions eastward of Sailly-Saillisel, but were everywhere unsuccessful. We slightly attempted raids south-eastward of Neuville St. Vaast, eastward of Ver-melles, and southwards of Neuve Chapelle. We entered the lines eastward of Neuville St. Vaast and destroyed a concrete machine gun emplacement. We carried out a successful raid at Givenchy, took 26 prisoners, and dropped bombs on a number of places of military importance, also damaging an enemy aerodrome.

A French communique on Saturday afternoon stated: We carried out coups de main west of Auberive and in the sectors of Beznages and Parroy, and made prisoners. Violent artillery fire took place on the Vacherauville-Courieres Wood front. An enemy aeroplane was brought down. A French aeroplane yesterday bombed the railway station and barracks at Karlsruhe. German aeroplanes bombed Dunkirk, Amiens, Nancy, Pont St. Vincent. Twenty-four persons were killed or injured.

A French official report issued late to-night says: We carried out a successful coup-de-main west of Pont-a-Mousson. There has been lively artillery fire on both banks of the Meuse. There were numerous French aeroplane bombardments last night of ironworks and railway stations, and many air fights. Two enemy machines, including a triplane, were brought down, one being Lieutenant Gaynemer's 21st victory.

A French communique on Friday afternoon stated: An enemy attack in the region of Vaux les Palameix, east of the Meuse, completely failed. Violent artillery actions prevail in the Woevre. German aeroplanes bombed the Dunkirk and Poulard regions, four people being killed and four injured.

A French communique issued at midnight on Friday stated: We carried out a successful coup de main east of Rheims. We effectively bombarded the sector of Hill 304.

GERMAN REPORTS.

A Berlin official message says: We repulsed a British detachment south of Sailly. We checked an attempted French attack on Hill 304. A French company's assault on Poivre Hill failed.

The Germans penetrated the French lines near Vaux, north of St. Mihiel, and destroyed dugouts with their inmates.

A previous German official message stated: We repulsed a British attack near Serre. We lost ground near Baillescourt. The British attacked north of St. Pierre Vaast Wood and retained a small front.

During January we lost 34 aeroplanes, and the Anglo-French and Russians 55.

ENEMY CONCENTRATION.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 10.

Behind Lille, and especially in the region of Roubaix, Allied airmen have observed extraordinary movements of German infantry. The Germans have concentrated much artillery behind the front line, endeavouring to place their forces in six good positions constructed at short intervals. The British light and heavy artillery are engaged in crumbling them up.

GRANDCOURT.

EASY CAPTURE BY BRITISH.

A NEW PHASE.

LONDON, Feb. 10.

Mr. Philip Gibbs, writing from the British Headquarters in France, says:—

The German abandonment of Grandcourt, enabling our troops to walk in practically unopposed, proves that the German command prefers at this stage to save casualties rather than hold on to ground regardless of cost. It is a new phase. A year ago the enemy's pride would not let him, as the bloody counter-attacks at Saint Eloi showed. Grandcourt, after the capture of Beaucourt and Beaumont-Hamel, became a place of misery for the Germans. Their position became still worse after Sunday as a result of the British advance. The Germans probably then began their withdrawal to stronger and higher positions south of Miraumont and Pys, where they are digging with great industry, despite the hard frost.

One trench barred the way to Grandcourt. The British on Tuesday trudged steadily across the snow and found a few Germans, much litter, and a number of dead. They then decided to push on to Grandcourt. It is a sinister spot, and an evil-sounding name to the Somme troops, because from thence for many months the enemy's massed guns have rained explosives on the whole of the Contalmaison-Pozieres country. No one knew if Grandcourt was occupied. Therefore, our artillery put up a great barrage. The enemy's guns responded heavily, but this did not check our advance, and caused few casualties. There was no fighting in the village ruins. The British quietly took possession of Grandcourt, which they found to be honey-combed with deep dugouts, containing stores and rations.

The seizure of Bailiescourt Farm happened on Wednesday night, the bright light of the full moon throwing a red flush on the snow. The Germans apparently did not anticipate an attack. They were caught in the dugouts and the ruins, and made no resistance. It was chiefly a matter of dodging shell fire and walking into the abandoned position.

These captures are important, and give an interesting and significant hint of the new German methods. These seem to consist of falling back here and there to defences before Bapaume, which the enemy has been strengthening untiringly since the Somme battles opened. Perhaps they are anxious to quit the low-lying ground before the thaw sets in; but signs of caution and uneasiness have not been shown before in the same degree.

U BOAT MENACE.

WILL BE DEFEATED.

LONDON, Feb. 9.

Mr. E. G. Pretyman (Civil Lord of the Admiralty), speaking at Chelmsford, said there had been a serious submarine menace at the beginning of the war, which was defeated, and the present serious menace would meet with the same fate. He hoped nobody would think the Admiralty had the slightest fear or doubt about its ability to defeat the present onslaught.

THE RUSSIANS.

(Admiralty—Per Wireless Press.)

A Russian official message says:—In the region of Manoluva, General Kardinalovske was killed by a rifle bullet. The enemy bombarded Stanislav with 12in shells.

ROUMANIA.

GALATZ OUT OF DANGER.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 9.

The Nord-Sud Agency states that the recent Russian successes, resulting in the enemy's withdrawal from Braila and Focsani, placed Galatz out of danger.

One of Germany's latest ruses is to leave candles in abandoned trenches, which explode when they are half-burnt. Many unsuspecting Russians have suffered.

BULGARIA.

REDUCING WAR ACTIVITIES.

(Admiralty—Per Wireless Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 9.

An Italian semi-official message says:—There is an increasingly active movement among the opposition in the Bulgarian Sobranje with a view to reducing Bulgaria's activities in the war. Bulgarian troops were recently withdrawn from Bucharest, and only remain in the Dobrudja. German pressure to combat this attitude has been without result.

Austria also desired the Bulgarians to participate on the Italian front, but the proposition produced a tumult in the Sobranje, the session ending amid an indescribable scuffle.

BRITISH DESTROYER.

SUNK BY MINE.

LONDON, Feb. 9.

The Admiralty announces that a British destroyer, of an old type, while patrolling the Channel, struck a mine and sank.

All the officers were lost. There were only five survivors.

FOOD FOR BELGIUM.

ARRANGEMENTS BY ALLIES.

LONDON, Feb. 9.

The Paris "Matin" says the Governments of France, Britain, and Belgium have discussed the question of provisioning the invaded territories of Belgium and France. They have opened pourparlers with Spain and Holland, with a view to replacing American control over the distribution of food, and have begun negotiations to ensure a continuous arrival of ships.

A Rome message states that the Vatican, in a semi-official statement, announces that Holland, Switzerland, and Scandinavia have agreed to continue the American relief work in Belgium and the North of France in the event of war between America and Germany.

NEW GERMAN NOTE.

AVOIDING HOSTILITIES.

AMERICAN SITUATION.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.

Germany is about to despatch a Note to the United States suggesting means for avoiding possible hostilities.

Mr. Lansing (Secretary of State) says he has not heard of any communication from Germany regarding a modification of submarine orders.

A message from a Washington correspondent states that the United States will not fight unless an American ship is proved to be deliberately torpedoed in circumstances admitting no extenuation. There are no American ships now on the high seas, and the crisis is petering out.

Another report says: Officials express the opinion that there is a forlorn hope of war being averted when Count von Bernstorff reaches Berlin, since he may be able to dissuade the German Emperor.

The "New York Evening Post's" Washington correspondent sums up what he describes as a more critical phase of the situation, by saying that the officials are convinced that the United States and Germany are drifting to a state of war.

The "New York Times," after citing the answers from all neutrals to Berlin, says: "When Germany violated Belgium, the Chancellor frankly stated that it was a violation of international law. He was not so frank on ruthless submarining; but it was not necessary, as the whole world said it for him."

The newspapers show slight unrest at there being no official recognition of the torpedoings thus far as "overt acts." The "World" published a cartoon showing Von Hindenburg telling the German Emperor of the curtailment of American sailings, and saying, "We've got them bluffed."

PREPAREDNESS.

The General Army Staff is drafting a Universal Service Bill for the President's consideration, providing for the enrolment and drilling of half a million 19 year-old youths annually.

PATRIOTIC OFFER.

Mr. Henry Ford, the millionaire motor-car manufacturer, announces that if war with Germany ensues he will lend 100,000,000 dollars to the Government free of interest.

PAVING THE WAY.

OVERTURES TO AMERICA.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.

Despite the lack of official confirmation, it is generally believed that, while the Note has not yet been presented, Germany has made some move towards preventing war with the United States. It is understood that Germany, through the Swiss Minister, has made informal suggestions intended to pave the way to an agreement whereby American ships and lives will not be subjected to relentless submarine warfare. It is believed that the German suggestions place on the United States the burden of proposing modifications.

It is believed in some quarters that the report of the German overtures has been inspired by Count von Bernstorff, but all the newspapers opine that there is some foundation for it. While the ruthless submarine campaign continues President Wilson will flatly refuse to discuss the question.

PEACE, IF POSSIBLE.

Mr. Lansing (Secretary of State), in the course of a speech last night, said: "This is a time of anxiety and heavy responsibility. We cannot close our eyes to the fact that we are standing near the verge of war. Ominous though the situation seems there is always a hope that the country may be spared from the terrible calamity of being forced into a conflict. It is the wish of the Government to remain at peace if we can with honour. The nation can trust the President to act justly, honourably, and fearlessly."

TREATMENT OF NATIONALS.

MR. GERARD AND COUNT VON BERNSTORFF.

LONDON, Feb. 10.

An Amsterdam report states that Herr von Stumm, the German Foreign Under-Secretary, explaining the position of Americans in Germany, says Germany has received no reports from Count von Bernstorff concerning the treatment of Germany's representatives and subjects in America. Von Bernstorff was unable even to announce his dismissal. All communication apparently has been stopped. Germany will be compelled to adopt the same measures. If it is true that America has confiscated German ships or interned their crews, this violates the Prusso-American Treaty of 1799.

Herr von Stumm asserts that the only cause for delaying Mr. Gerard's departure is the necessity for making out a hundred passports, also Mr. Gerard has not completed his preparations. Germany, through Switzerland, is negotiating with America to save the subjects of both countries from harsh treatment.

Herr von Stumm justifies the submarine war as an effort to equalise the conditions, in view of Germany's enforced exclusion from overseas trade.

MR. GERARD LEAVING BERLIN.

Amsterdam advices state that Mr. Gerard, accompanied by 200 persons, leaves Berlin to-night (Saturday). A military escort will be provided. Mr. Gerard is expected to arrive at the Swiss frontier on Sunday afternoon. The German Emperor sent one of his equerries to accompany Mr. Gerard as far as Basle. The Embassy buildings are now under special police protection.

The "Cologne Gazette" states that arrangements have been made for the Berlin correspondents of the "Chicago Tribune" and "News," the "New York World," and all the Hearst papers, to remain unless war is declared. The Germans consider it desirable that Americans should receive news not subjected to English control.

A New York message yesterday stated that, according to the United Press Association's Berlin correspondent, a special train would probably leave Berlin for Berne on Saturday, carrying Mr. Gerard, his staff, and Consuls, and other Americans.

The American State Department had not then been advised whether Mr. Gerard had received his passports, and inquiry had been made from Berlin.

The United States Government, through Switzerland, demanded an explanation from Germany as to why Mr. Gerard was detained.

The "Petit Parisien's" Zurich correspondent says financial circles confirm the report that the German authorities have ordered the banks to make it difficult for Americans to withdraw money. Many are almost unable to buy food. The Deutsche Bank refused Mr. Gerard a loan. The "Berliner Tageblatt" states that Mr. Gerard's telephone was cut off.

An Amsterdam telegram says that Mr. Gerard has formally protested to the German Government against the cutting-off of the Embassy, telephone ten minutes after his asking for passports.

BERNSTORFF'S SAFE CONDUCT

It is understood that Britain has informed the United States that she is granting safe conduct to Count von Bernstorff, but cannot be responsible for anything due to Germany's disregard of international law.

ATTITUDE OF NEUTRALS

KEEPING OUT OF WAR.

LONDON, Feb. 10.

The latest news received in London from South America indicates that Chile, the Argentine, and Brazil will protest strongly against Germany's blockade and reserve the right to defend their interests if injured. In reply to President Wilson, it is probable that they will not accede to his invitation to follow the lead of the United States at present, but will forward a copy of their reply to Germany.

The Spanish Government, estimating the noisy pro-German reactionary minority at its true worth, has refused to be intimidated. The reply shows that Spain does not seek a quarrel with Germany, but is determined to defend its subjects' lives and property. Spain's reply to America encloses the reply to Germany, pointing out that existing circumstances prevent Spain from acting otherwise. It is understood that Spain's reply furnished the model for the South American replies to both Germany and the United States.

CHILE'S PROTEST.

Chile, in the reply to the German submarine Note, refuses to acquiesce in the German measures, because they are opposed to the ancient privileges of non-combatants, and would mean a deviation from Chile's strict neutrality. Chile accordingly holds herself at liberty to claim respect of all her rights in case of German violation thereof.

SWEDEN'S NEUTRALITY.

Stockholm advices say the Swedish Conservative newspapers applaud the reply to America as proving that Sweden's neutrality is still active. Opposition leaders attack the Government for posing as President Wilson's schoolmaster, and declare that the Premier's neutrality is one-sided.

The "Sevenskadlblad" says: "If any neutrial rights preserved hitherto are due to countries smaller than America, they are now entitled to remind America that she failed to support them."

The Scandinavian Seamen's Union has issued a manifesto protesting against Germany's submarine depredations and piratical murdering of innocent seamen.

The newspapers state that the Scandinavian Governments are endeavouring to arrive at an agreement with Germany for safe trading with England.

GERMAN GLEE.

According to a message from Berne the "Frankfurt Zeitung" remarks that President Wilson appears to be on the war-path, but it gleefully alludes to the refusal of other neutrals to respond to his invitation to follow America's example by severing diplomatic relations. This, says the paper, amounts to an unquestionable diplomatic defeat.

Other German newspapers declare that in view of the European neutrals' attitude the rupture with America is of no consequence.

MADE SURE FIRST.

Count Tisza, the Hungarian Premier, has informed members of his party that before sending the Note regarding ruthless submarining, the Central Powers sounded all European neutrals regarding their possible attitude.

As a result of these inquiries, the Central Powers learnt that there would be no danger of any European neutral undertaking warlike action against Austria and Germany. They then decided to send out the Note.

CHINA MAY BREAK OFF RELATIONS.

A message from Peking says that China has announced that she will break off relations with Germany if the submarine campaign is pursued.

CHAMPION OF NEUTRALS.

The "Observer" says that only separate and decisive action by the United States can deliver the rest of the neutral world from German terrorism. "The German veto upon the use of the Atlantic touches a right of American citizens which is as neutral to them as the air they breathe, and is a vital part of their national independence," the "Observer" says. It adds: "To this situation there can be but one end, and the coming week will possibly be big with fate."

PERU'S PROTEST.

REPARATION DEMANDED.

(Admiralty—Per Wireless Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 10.

A wireless message from Berlin states that Peru has protested against a German submarine, flying the French flag, in Spanish waters, outside the war zone, sinking the Peruvian sailing ship Lorton. Peru says this is an unjustifiable offence, and demands an indemnity, damages, and the punishment of the authors.

NO NEED TO WORRY.

NAVY AND THE SUBMARINES.

LONDON, Feb. 10.

Admiral Reginald Bacon wrote to the War Loan meeting at Greenwich: "Don't worry too much about submarines. The Navy will give them all the worry they want. The splendid pluck of our merchant seamen will upset the German calculations at the end of the war, as badly as did the 'contemptible little army' at the beginning. You are not going to be frightened, panic-stricken, or starved. If you make the loan a success it will be a knock-out blow for the enemy."

Mr. J. Hodge (Minister for Labour), addressing a meeting, said that the money was wanted not only for munitions and to build merchantmen, but to construct harpoons to chase the submarines from the seven seas.

THE DAILY TOLL.

RUTHLESS SINKING.

SEVEN NORWEGIAN VESSELS.

LONDON, Feb. 10.

The "Manchester Guardian" says the approximate number of sinkings during the first week of unrestricted submarine activity is 43 merchantmen, totalling 100,000 tonnage, in addition to trawlers, smacks, and vessels known to have been mined.

The British steamer Lullington (2610 tons) has been sunk, the crew being subsequently landed.

The British-India Company's Mantola (6828 tons), bound for Calcutta, was sunk. The crew were saved except seven Lascars. The survivors are expected to reach Fishguard on Sunday.

The Spanish steamer Nueva Montana (2039 tons) has been sunk.

The Norwegian steamers Hans Kinck (2037 tons), Odin (1045 tons), and Holbakken (2616 tons) have been sunk; the Odin without warning. Two engineers were killed. Fifteen of the Holbakken's crew are missing.

The Swedish steamer Vaering (4000 tons) has been sunk.

Two of the engineers of the Crown Point, whose loss already has been reported, were killed; also three firemen.

Twenty-five of the Vedamore's crew were lost. The survivors have landed.

The Norwegian sailing ship Storskog, 2191 tons, and the steamer Ida, 1172 tons, have been sunk. Part of the Ida's crew have landed. The chief mate and steward were killed by submarine gunfire, which commenced without warning, and did not cease until the vessel sank.

The steamer Hanna Larsen, 1311 tons, has been lost. Nineteen of the crew have landed. The captain and chief engineer were taken prisoners.

The Norwegian sailing vessel Songelv (2063 tons) has been sunk. The survivors state that a German submarine captured an unknown Italian vessel. A prize crew painted out the name, and navigated the vessel until she sank the Turin (1756 tons), the Hollinside (2682 tons), and the Songelv, transferring the crews to the Italian steamer, and later to the British steamer Penmount, which landed them.

The British steamer Beechtree, 1277 tons, has been torpedoed. The vessel sank in seven minutes, the crew being able to land. The British steamer Japanese Prince, 4876 tons, has been sunk. The Norwegian steamer Eliavore, 2732 tons, has also been sunk. The captain of the Eliavore has landed, but twelve of the crew are missing. The Norwegian steamer Havgard, 1279 tons, is another of the vessels that has fallen a victim to submarines.

According to a message from Newport News there were 20 white American muleteers aboard the steamer Japanese Prince that has been sunk.

Four sailors from the steamer Dauntless, which was torpedoed by a German submarine, have been picked up at the point of death after a terrible experience of five days in an open boat.

At the inquest on the body of the chief officer of the Saint Ninian, which was sunk off the north-east coast, a witness, who was aboard the Saint Ninian, said he saw the Corsican Prince sink a mile ahead. He commanded the lifeboats, and picked up all the crew, except one. On returning, he saw about eight feet of a submarine's periscope. A torpedo struck the Saint Ninian, and she sank in three minutes, with 14 of the crew. Fourteen others were saved.

An Amsterdam message states that Germany has promised full compensation if it transpires that the Dutch steamer Gamma was submarined.

THE CALIFORNIA.

There is no confirmation of the report that two submarines attacked the California, but the periscope of one was seen.

The survivors include a boy named O'Donnell. The bodies of his mother, brother, and sister were cast ashore.

Two of the lifeboats launched are missing.

GERMAN DENIAL.

Copenhagen advices say that inspired statements in the German Press solemnly refuse to consider the possibility of the Belgian relief steamer Larskruse having been torpedoed in defiance of Germany's promises. They say that if the ship was properly marked it could not have been torpedoed, and must, therefore, have struck a mine.

INDIGNATION IN HOLLAND.

Advices from Rotterdam state that there is intense indignation on account of the brutal treatment of the Dutch trawler Derik by a German submarine, which fired at the trawler, smashing the compass. Three men on the bridge had a miraculous escape. The skipper protested that he had not heard of Germany's intensified campaign. The Germans replied: "We don't care: the Derik must sink." The Germans stole the liquor aboard, and also the fish, and sunk the vessel by bombing her. The crew was brought to Ymuiden.

A Copenhagen message says that four shots were fired before the steamer Ida, sunk the other day, discovered the whereabouts of the attacking submarine. There were several fatalities and five of the crew were wounded. The ship was sunk by means of bombs when the crew had taken to the boats.

GERMAN MINES ADRIFT.

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 11.

It is feared that a great number of German mines in the Sound are adrift, owing to the ice, and that many will explode by colliding with blocks of ice.

STRONG DUTCH PROTEST.

THE HAGUE, Feb. 10.

A White Book, containing the correspondence with Austria and Germany, has been presented to the Dutch Parliament. Holland strongly protests against the submarine ruthlessness. The Government considers the destruction of neutral ships a violation of international, and equally of human, law when submarines fail to safeguard life, and will hold the German Government responsible for the destruction of Dutch vessels within the proscribed zone.

NEW U BOATS.

35 IN MEDITERRANEAN.

ROME, Feb. 10.

The "Agenzia Libera" states that when Germany announced her new submarine campaign she had forty new improved submarines in German ports awaiting the signal. In addition twenty new submarines were sent to Pola and Constaninople. It is understood that thirty-five German and Austrian U boats are now in operation in the Mediterranean.

BRITAIN'S OBJECTIVES.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE SPEAKS TO AMERICANS.

SAME FIGHT AS LINCOLN'S.

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.

Mr. Lloyd George, in a Lincoln Day message to the New York "Times," says: "The battle we have been fighting is the same at bottom as that fought by Lincoln; and I gladly welcome the proof which the last few days have afforded that Americans are realising this. Lincoln fought slavery. Has not there grown up in Germany a new form of militarist slavery which has crushed the freedom of the people and threatened to crush the freedom and fraternity of all Europe? The militarist system in Germany has been the source of all the expansion of armaments and international unrest for the last 20 years. The ultimatum to Servia and the ruthless attacks upon Belgium and France revealed the implacable nature of the struggle. It has been difficult for America, 3000 miles away, to appreciate what is at stake in the present war. In the American Civil War many of our ancestors were blind, but America now sees that human unity and freedom are the objectives of this war.

"We are not fighting a war for conquest, but for the liberation of all the world from the barbarous doctrines and inhuman practises which have estranged nations and held back the unity and progress of the world. In such a war we cannot compromise. It must either be won or lost. Tyrannical military power would succeed the tearing up of treaties and the trampling of the rights of the weak. Therefore we believe the war must be fought to a finish. There will be no such thing as a draw. Lincoln wanted the freedom of the people to govern themselves. So do we to-day. When the Central Empires accept the peace offered by the Allies not only will the Allied peoples be free, but the German people, too, will find that in losing the dream of empire over others they have found self-government for themselves."

DANES AND DUTCH.

FEELING THE PINCH.

COPENHAGEN, Feb. 10.

It is believed that, with the utmost economy, Denmark has only two and a half months' coal supply. All street lamps are to be extinguished, and electric services curtailed; while the theatres and restaurants will close early.

COAL FROM GERMANY.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 10.

Over two hundred factories in Holland are closing down, and many others are on half time, owing to the shortage of coal. Street lighting in some towns is suspended. Germany is unable to supply coal trains, and negotiations are proceeding for the dispatch of Dutch trains to the German mines. Germany requires daily produce and potatoes in exchange for coal.

ROTTERDAM, Feb. 9

The disturbances continue in Amsterdam. Fuel is practically exhausted, and potatoes are very scarce. Many greengrocers' shops have been plundered. The police are guarding docks and warehouses.

ITALIAN FRONT.

AUSTRIAN CLAIM.

(Admiralty—Per Wireless Press.)

LONDON, Feb. 10.

An Austrian official message claims that in the region of Gorizia the Austrians gained a footing in several trenches, inflicted severe and sanguinary losses, and captured 665 prisoners and ten machine guns.

EGYPT.

SENUSSI AGAIN ROUTED.

LONDON, Feb. 9.

It is officially reported from Egypt that Say Ed Ahmed, with the Senussi's main force, south of Girba, after being routed, fled. We occupied Siwa, also Munasib Pass. We captured a convoy, and ambushed the leading party from Girba.

The Senussi's casualties numbered 200, including several Turkish officers.

MESOPOTAMIA.

BRITISH PROGRESS.

LONDON, Feb. 10.

An official report from Mesopotamia says: The positions gained on February 5 were consolidated. Our artillery on several occasions bombarded the liquorice factory, which is strongly held by the enemy. Despite two counter attacks we secured and consolidated portion of the new front-age west of the Hai River. Farther westward we secured and consolidated trenches on a frontage of 1200 yards.

COST OF THE WAR.

ESTIMATE EXCEEDED.

LONDON, Feb. 9.

Monday's credit vote for £550,000,000, of which £200,000,000 is needed for the war to the end of March, makes the financial year's total £1,950,000,000, which is £350,000,000 in excess of Mr. M'Kenna's Budget estimate.

BRITISH AIR RAID.

LONDON, Feb. 10.

An Admiralty report states: Naval aeroplanes attacked the aerodrome at Ghistelles on Friday. A large number of bombs reached their objective. All the aeroplanes have returned.

BERLIN SCHOOLS CLOSED.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 9.

All the schools in Berlin have been closed owing to the lack of coal.

AUSTRIAN YOUTHS.

CALLED UP FOR SERVICE.

ZURICH, Feb. 10.

All Austro-Hungarians born in 1899 have been called up for medical examination and classification.

GERMAN HOPE.

TO STARVE ENGLAND.

LONDON, Feb. 10.

A Berne message says: Travellers from Germany state that it is a universal article of faith that England will be reduced to starvation in three or four months, and that Germany needs only to hold out for that period. The Germans admit that it would be possible for America to save England by escorting food convoys if time permitted; but they say it is too late now. Apparently the people of Germany are carefully taught this creed.

An Amsterdam report says: Austrian newspapers hold that Mr. Bonar Law's statement that a war of starvation is menacing England is a brilliant justification of the Central Powers' attitude.

AN ANXIOUS NOTE.

Advices from Amsterdam state that the German newspapers express extravagant joy over the submarine war. Naval circles, however, do not conceal their anxiety regarding England's new defensive measures and the rapid exhaustion of liquid fuel. They demand that everything must be done to restore the Roumanian oil wells and prevent the frequent attempts which are made against the few wells still remaining.

PROFITS OF FARMERS.

SACRIFICES IN WAR TIME.

LONDON, Feb. 10.

Mr. R. E. Prothero (president of the Board of Agriculture), speaking at Preston, said that cereals and potatoes should be raised in the greatest possible quantities.

Regarding the selling of wheat at 60s per quarter, had he a free hand he would tell farmers that they would receive a maximum of 50s, leaving the remainder to the play of the market.

"I want to get the whole Empire in," Mr. Prothero continued. "The key to this is the farmer of Great Britain, who should sacrifice some of his prospects of war profits. India has sacrificed profits to feed us, and Australia has done the same. We hoped in 1916 that Canada would do likewise, but we were too late, as usual, because the farmer was beginning to get high profits in Chicago. A Canadian farmer said to me, 'How can you ask us to take less for your sakes in England when the farmers in England are taking every penny of their war profits?' We should be able to say 'Our farmers cheerfully accepted the sacrifice of possible profits; go and do the same; let us all be in it, and out to win the war.'"

WAR-TIME ECONOMY.

LONDON, Feb. 9.

In connection with the economy campaign Harrow and Eton schools have been placed on war rations. The tuck shops are not allowed to sell cakes, pastry, or other articles to enable the boys to exceed Lord Devonport's allowance, although purchases of jam and sweets are allowed. The Eton boys, including Prince Henry and Prince Leopold of Belgium have been ordered to limit their expenditure to new clothes.

ENEMY FIRM'S BUSINESS.

LONDON, Feb. 9.

The Public Trustee is inviting British tenders for the purchase of the business of Siemens Brothers and Company, electrical manufacturers.

GERMAN TORPEDO-BOATS.

ROTTERDAM, Feb. 10.

The Central News states that German trains transported 19 torpedo boats in sections to the Belgian coast.

NO NEW BREAD.

PARIS, Feb. 10.

A decree has been issued which prohibits the making of fancy bread or the sale of newly-baked bread.

LESSONS OF THE WAR.

DAWN OF NEW ERA.

LONDON, Feb. 9.

Mr. W. F. Massey, New Zealand Premier, in an article in the "Pall Mall Gazette," says:—One of the most valuable lessons of the war teaches how the wise utilisation of woman-power in certain spheres will release a vast amount of man-power for the development of the resources of the Empire, and secure its future progress and prosperity. Men will demand, and receive, a large measure of the products of their toil, while the stress and competition will be lessened by the opening of broader fields of opportunity. It is the dawn of a new era of industrial prosperity, based on co-operation. The very forces which the enemy set in motion have enabled the Empire to realise its common perils, powers, and possibilities, and have revealed the weak points in the Empire's armour.

GOVERNOR OF BELGIUM.

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 10.

General von Bissing, the ex-Governor of Belgium, has returned to Brussels temporarily to wind up certain business. Von Tirpitz and the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg are candidates for the position as his successor.

WARNING UNHEEDED.

LONDON, Feb. 10.

Mr. Octavius Beale, of Sydney, lecturing at the London School of Economics, said he had continually warned the Australian Administration that the lead exported to Germany would be returned to Australia's sons in the shape of bullets, but his warnings were unheeded.

FLYING ACCIDENT.

LONDON, Feb. 10.

Captain Eric Farrow, of the Flying Corps, formerly of Brisbane, has been accidentally killed while flying.

CARTING COAL.

LONDON, Feb. 10.

General Lloyd has lent 50 army drivers to London municipalities to assist in the delivery of coal. Many firms are lending coal merchants motor vans. The municipalities also are lending vehicles.

GERMAN INTERESTS IN SYDNEY.

SWISS CONSUL IN CHARGE.

The German Government has, through Washington, notified that its interests in Australia, New Zealand, and the South Sea Islands will be placed in the hands of the Swiss Consul. These interests were previously looked after by Mr. Brittain, American Consul-General, but his duties ceased when the United States severed diplomatic relations with Germany.

WAR NOTES.

GROWING ACTIVITY IN FRANCE.

The increasing frequency of the raids along the Western front foreshadows the awakening to activity of the opposing armies there. It is yet too early to attempt to fathom their portent, and, as they have occurred at many widely separated points along the whole of the tortuous line, from the Swiss border to the Belgian coast, it is difficult to pick out instances where they may represent anything more than a desire on the part of both belligerents to see how the land lies. In certain sectors, where the winter lull has been less sustained, the fighting reported has a different meaning from that of most of the raids. In the Somme region and around Verdun, for instance, we may expect a resumption of those bigger operations which the British and French were recently engaged in. More particularly does this expectation apply to the Somme region, where the events of the past few days reveal a desire on the part of the Allies to resume the efforts on which they were actively engaged last year. The reports of Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig, therefore, have a special interest at the present time, and his reference this morning to the enemy's counter-attacks on the new British positions east of Sailly-Saillisel reminds us of the importance which the Germans attach to this their remaining piece of high ground in the region north of the Somme, the main portion of which, known as the Thiepval Plateau, now supplies the British with valuable observation posts for future attacks.

WHAT LIES BEYOND SAILLISEL.

This is not the first time the enemy has shown his anxiety regarding the Allies' progress near this twin village. Sailly, which is a cluster of houses on either side of the Peronne-Bapaume road, has been held firmly ever since the French captured it last year, but this has not been the case with Saillisel, which runs off in an easterly direction from the main road, and occupies portion of what is known as Sailly-Saillisel Hill. The highest point of this hill (about 500ft above sea level) is less than half a mile south-east of Saillisel. On November 8 last we were informed that the French had conquered most of the village of Saillisel. Three days later the enemy apparently regained it by means of fierce counter-attacks, but two days later still we heard that the French had recaptured most of it, while the French in a communique published here on November 14 announced that they had completed the conquest of the village. Now the British have taken over the work which the French had so ably commenced, and it is clear from Sir Douglas Haig's message published this morning that the enemy is as anxious as ever regarding his position in this region. This anxiety is undoubtedly due to his desire to preserve his positions along the Tortille River and at Mont St. Quentin, which are the main defences against an Allied attack on Peronne from the north. The capture by the Allies of the whole of the high ground to the south and south-east of Saillisel would render the big St. Pierre Vaast Wood untenable to the enemy, and would probably permit of an Allied advance which would bring them within view of the enemy's gun positions in the Tortille Valley and at Mont St. Quentin, and the latter place has been regarded as the key to Peronne.

THE NAVY AND SUBMARINES.

While the submarine campaign continues to show appreciable results, the position so far created cannot be considered alarming, and the statement made by the Civil Lord of the Admiralty, Mr. E. G. Pretyman, in his speech at Chelmsford is no doubt intended to allay any unnecessary fears which might arise. The implicit faith placed in the navy by the British people is apt to be severely tested at such a time as this when the daily list of sinkings reveals the fresh successes of the enemy's underwater craft, while the effect of the repressive measures of the navy remains veiled in secrecy. There is a tendency to look only at the outward and visible picture revealed by the continued reports of losses sustained by the merchant fleets of the world, and it is well that someone in authority should occasionally remind us of the reverse side of the picture. The reasons why this side of the canvas should not be placed within the garish glare of publicity is clear to everyone, and, although many may be of the opinion that certain facts might be liberated without supplying our enemies' with information which could be of any use to them, the Admiralty appears to have set its face sternly against such restricted revelation of things as they are. In the absence of any announcement as to the actual number of German submarines bagged since February 1 we must be satisfied with the concluding sentence of Mr. Pretyman's speech at Chelmsford, which represents an official reiteration of the Admiralty's complete confidence in its ability to defeat the present onslaught.

INDEFENSIBLE NEUTRAL VESSELS.

One of the main features of the present submarine campaign is the big proportion of neutral vessels contained in the list of victims. In considering this side of the question, it seems reasonable to attribute this largely to a desire on the part of submarine commanders to preserve the safety of their vessels and of the lives of the men in their charge. While a great number of British and French merchant ships have been armed, all merchant steamers flying neutral flags are known to be entirely unprotected, and therefore fall easy preys to under-water craft, which are able safely to display their periscopes and even rise to the surface in order to manoeuvre into an attacking position. The vulnerability of a submarine places her at a disadvantage in a contest with a surface ship possessing equality in artillery. Different tactics therefore are necessary on the part of a submarine commander who is about to attack a British or French steamer which might open fire on the frailer vessel as soon as she shows her periscope above water. He must either take the risk of being sent to the bottom by a single shot or accept the alternative of manoeuvring under water at a reduced speed when his chances of a successful attack will be diminished. No such precautions are necessary in approaching a steamer which has been recognised from a distance as a harmless neutral, and the tendency on the part of the commanders of the U boats to seek out neutral vessels for their victims reveals a certain amount of timidity on their part in attacking possible armed merchantmen.

QUESTION OF ARMING.

What is there to prevent neutrals from also affording their vessels this form of protection against attack? This question has previously been asked by many writers, and was recently discussed by Mr. Arthur Pollen in "Land and Water." "Will the neutrals ever pluck up the courage to arm their own ships?" he asks. "Neutrality at sea has long since been, as we have seen, a phrase only, for Germany is impartially at war with all shipping. If it is good law that defensive arming does not turn the merchant ship of a belligerent into a belligerent warship, then it would seem to be good law that the arming of the merchant ships of a neutral for defensive purposes against unneutral attack should not be a belligerent act of the neutral power that so arms her. Anyway, if a neutral captain or shipowner chose to protect himself in this way, it should not involve his Government in any breach of neutrality, so long as that Government does not admit the belligerent's right to sink its country's ships for reasons hitherto held insufficient by international law." The replies forwarded to Germany by Spain and other neutrals on the subject of the submarine blockade, and the attitude adopted by the United States of America, show that they refuse to recognise any such right. Germany's view of the arming of merchant vessels is undoubtedly the principal deterrent to the adoption of this course by neutrals. When Mr. Bonar Law announced to the House of Commons, on December 19 last, that Germany had given assurances that Captain Biskie would not be shot, he added that "Germany considered his steamer, the Caledonia, was an armed cruiser, and that he only did his duty." This, and other statements made by the enemy, indicate his intention to treat armed merchantmen as belligerent warships.

THE ANTARCTIC.

MACKINTOSH'S PARTY.

OVERTAKEN BY BLIZZARD.

THREE MEN PERISH.

(COPYRIGHTED IN AUSTRALIA AND NEW ZEALAND BY THE AUSTRALIAN PRESS ASSOCIATION, IN GREAT BRITAIN BY THE "DAILY CHRONICLE," AND IN THE UNITED STATES BY THE NEW YORK "WORLD.")

Sir Ernest Shackleton's copyright report, which was brought to Wellington (N.Z.) by the Aurora, is as follows:—

On March 14, 1915, three days after the Aurora left Hut Point, Cope, Jack, and Hayward, arrived from the Barrier with two dogs. On the 22nd, Mackintosh, Joyce, and Wild arrived badly frost-bitten. All the dogs were dead. There was consistent bad weather, and furious blizzards, and the temperature, being 30deg. below zero, militated against progress, but despite difficulties they laid a depot in 80deg. South. Open water or thin ice prevented the party reaching Cape Evans until June 1. It was found that the Aurora had gone from the position. The party had ample provisions, matches, fresh meat, blubber, sledging provisions, and kerosene was being landed. The main coal supply was landed, but it was washed away by a wave from a capsized berg. The only serious result of the ship's disappearance was due to clothing not being landed. The winter passed with the usual blizzards, Joyce and Wild making clothing and fur boots from materials left by the Scott expedition. Jack, Richards, and Stevens did the scientific work, and Cope, Hayward, and Gaze seal-hunting.

In view of the loss of all except four dogs, Captain Mackintosh made his programme for early and extensive sledging, which started on September 1. Five journeys were made to Hut Point. On October 9 nine men in three units started sledging to stock Bluff Depot in 79deg. south. Four journeys were made. Afterwards all the units proceeded south. The first party included Mackintosh, Wild, and Smith; and the second, which was in charge of Joyce, consisted of Hayward, Richards, Cope, Jack, Gaze, and four dogs. At 80deg. south, Joyce sent back Jack, Gaze, and Cope, owing to their being worn out.

SCOTT'S SLEDGES FOUND.

This party reached Hut Point on January 15, 1916, covering 150 miles in nine days. From 80deg. south Mackintosh joined up the parties and on January 22, in 83deg. south, Spencer-Smith suddenly broke down with scurvy, and was left in a tent with provisions. On January 26, the last depot was laid at Mount Hope. They found here two of Scott's sledges, the only trace found of the Scott expedition, though his party followed the same track. Snowfall had evidently been heavy on the Barrier. On January 29 the party picked up Spencer-Smith. He was helpless, and was lashed on a sledge in a sleeping bag. Symptoms of scurvy were appearing, and the greatest possible speed was made homeward. Mackintosh was badly attacked, but he continued pulling in the trace. Despite the lost traction power and the weight of the sick man, progress was rapid during the next 180 miles. Then the strain began to tell. Owing to the bad surface and the weather, the length of the marches grew shorter, and the hours marched longer. At 80deg. south, owing to the condition of the party and the knowledge of the bad weather conditions in this area, extra food was taken from the depot. This precaution was fully justified. Within 30 miles of where Scott perished the party was overtaken by a furious blizzard under similar conditions 11 miles from the safety of Bluff Depot. The blizzard raged from February 17 to March 1, the temperature being 30deg. below zero. For the first six days the party remained camped. Then as fuel and provisions were practically exhausted, and the men were weakening rapidly in their frozen sleeping bags, the camp was broken. On the 23rd, after three hours' digging the buried sledges out, they started in the blinding drift in an attempt to reach the depot, 11 miles away.

FIGHT AGAINST DEATH.

Now began a fight against death, which called forth qualities of self-denial, endurance, and comradeship worthy of the highest traditions of the Polar service. Soon after starting, Mackintosh fell in his tracks, having endured to the limit. He was left with Spencer-Smith, with Wild to attend; whilst Joyce, Richards, and Hayward, with four starving dogs, struggled on to reach the depot. A few biscuits, crumbs, and tea were the only food left. On the 26th, in a momentary clearance of the drift, the depot was sighted. The party returned with food and oil. Hayward was now broken down. The blizzard continuing, Joyce and Richards, with dogs pulling, on the 29th arrived at the camp, and found the party without food, but full of appreciation of Wild's self-denying care, the sick men being quite helpless. Immediately a start was made again for the depot, Mackintosh and Spencer-Smith being lashed on a sledge, and Hayward staggering along beside. On March 1 the blizzard drift ceased, but the wind continued. On the 2nd they left the depot with stores replenished. Mackintosh, Spencer-Smith, and Hayward were now lashed on sledges. The party was helped by a sledge sail. On the 7th the wind dropped, and the sail was useless. Three men were pulling, but they were unable to move the sledges with their sick comrades. Mackintosh, seeing the gravity of the situation, decided unselfishly to remain behind to give the other sick men a chance to reach safety. This decision was in keeping with his behaviour throughout. On the 8th the party left him in a tent with three weeks' provisions 40 miles from safety. The party pushed on with Hayward and Spencer-Smith. All were now weakening from scurvy. The temperature was low, and the weather fine. On the 9th Spencer-Smith died after 47 days' sickness. He was cheerful to the end. On March 11 Hut Point was reached, and fresh meat and dried vegetables were procured. On the 14th, after a bad blizzard, Joyce, Richards, and Wild started back for Captain Mackintosh. On the 18th all were safe at Hut Point. The lives of Mackintosh and Hayward had been saved up to now by the devoted efforts of their comrades and by the endurance and work of the four dogs—Cunner, Con, Towser, and Oscar—under the worst weather conditions, short food, and sometimes none at all. The party had practically been sledging from September 1, 1915, to March 18, 1916, covering 1560 statute miles. In spite of abnormal difficulties the party laid a depot at Mount Howe, thus carrying out the object of the expedition. The scurvy symptoms rapidly disappeared under the regime of fresh meat and vegetables, and by the end of April all were well. I consider the scurvy was due to the length of time the party was without fresh food, combined with the abnormally heavy sledging undertaken without the help of dogs or other tractive power, the dearth of clothing and comfort, caused by the unexpected breaking away of the Aurora, which undoubtedly had its effect upon the health of the party.

WORST FEARS REALISED.

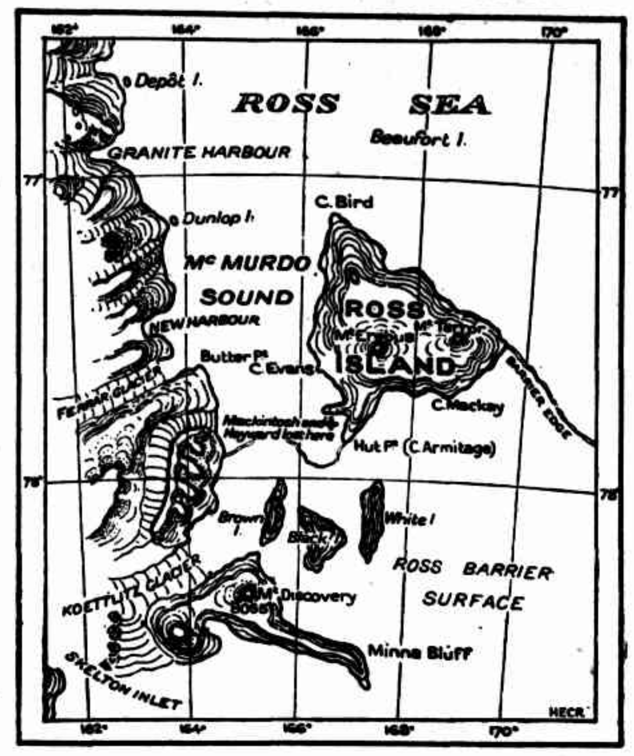

From March 18 until the end of April the sea-ice was steadily forming between Hut Point and Cape Evans, only to be blown out by each succeeding blizzard. At the beginning of May a calm period ensued, and ice formed of a thickness of 4in. On May 8 Mackintosh and Hayward decided to cross the sea-ice to Cape Evans. The weather was fine when they started at 1 p.m. with no equipment. They were overtaken by a sudden blizzard at 3 p.m., when they would be approximately four miles from Hut Point. On May 10 the remainder of the party at Hut Point being anxious about their safety followed Mackintosh. Tracks to the north were found abruptly terminating in open water. The worst fears were realised when, on January 15, they arrived at Cape Evans, and found that Mackintosh and Hayward had not arrived. After daylight returned searches were conducted for any traces, but none were found of the missing men. The loss of Mackintosh and Hayward was due to the break-up and driving north of the young ice under the influence of the blizzard. The remainder of 1916 was spent mainly in sledging stores from my hut to Cape Royds, in view of the possible detention for another year.

On January 10, 1917, the Aurora arrived five miles from Cape Evans, picked up the seven survivors, who were all well, and learned the loss of Mackintosh and Hayward eight months previously. Whilst recognising the hopelessness of finding any traces, the Aurora remained until the 19th. During the nine days an examination was made of the unsearched part of McMurdo Sound, as far north as Granite Harbour. I was landed by Captain Davis with search parties, but I discovered no traces. Neither, whilst close into the coast, was anything to be found by the ship. I am deeply grateful to the Imperial, Dominion, and Commonwealth Governments for coming to the assistance of members of my expeditions, who were left in the Antarctic, and to Captain Davis and the officers and crew of the Aurora.

FEDERAL ATTITUDE.

BRISBANE, Saturday.

"So far as Queensland is concerned, the Government has no intention, and never had, of violating the Federal Constitution in any way," remarked the Premier (Mr. Ryan), when his attention was directed to a Melbourne telegram announcing that the Federal Government had decided that as import and export transactions were clearly within the ambit of the Commonwealth, it would take action either by direct legislation of regulation under the War Precautions Act to prevent State interference with the export and import of cattle, interstate or oversea.

"The High Court has already held that the Meat for Imperial Uses Act is valid," added Mr. Ryan, "and the action of this Government is quite constitutional. I am sure I do not know what action Mr. Hughes contemplates; but I would naturally expect that he would communicate with me if he intended to attempt to interfere in any way in Queensland affairs. It is difficult to pass an opinion on the scope that the Prime Minister would give the War Precautions Act. I think he regards it as a panacea for all evils. The only thing that seems outside the scope of its operations is the Labour majority in the Senate."

MEAT TRADE STRIKE.

QUEENSLAND OPERATIONS CEASE.

BRISBANE, Sunday.

As the result of resolutions agreed to by the men employed at the meat works in the Brisbane area the employees at the various meat works ceased work on Friday. The men attended at the A.M.E. works and after working till about 10 o'clock ceased work, when a meeting was held. At the meeting it was stated certain resolutions were passed, after which the whole of the employees, with the exception of portion of the engineering staff and clerical workers, ceased operations and left work, giving no notice of their intention to the management.

Questioned as to the reason for such action, the manager of the works stated that he was unable to give any; but it is stated that a number of men are dissatisfied with the award under which they are working. The works affected by the cessation are the Australian Meat Export Company, the Queensland Meat Export Company, and the Redbank, most of the other companies not being engaged in killing at present. At the A.M.E. works, about 500 men are affected.

Borthwick and Sons and Birt and Co.'s works at Murrarie are also idle. This means that very large quantities of meat in course of preparation for the Imperial Government are jeopardised through the stoppage of the refrigerating machinery. In some cases the men came out leaving half-dressed carcases unfinished.

Mr. McGee, of the Q.M.E. Company, stated that he understood that the provisions of the Industrial Arbitration Act, which recently became law, provided that notice of the intention to strike should be given and a ballot taken before the men came out. Neither of these provisions was complied with.

The firemen also came out with the other employees, and this means that steam cannot be kept up. The trouble appears to have arisen over the renewal of the existing agreement, negotiations for which had been proceeding for some time.

A compulsory conference began in the Industrial Arbitration Court on Saturday, and after a long discussion his Honor ordered that the representatives of the employers meet representatives of the A.M.I.E. Union, the Amalgamated Society of Engineers, and the Federated Firemen and Enginedrivers' Association in private conference to discuss the claims of the employees on Wednesday, at 11 a.m., on the condition that the employees return to work before the hour set down for the conference.

SHORTAGE OF WHEAT.

COMPLAINTS IN TASMANIA.

HOBART, Saturday.

A serious position has arisen in consequence of the shortage of stocks of wheat held by millers, who, through the State Government, have been endeavouring to obtain supplies from the mainland free of transport charges.

Negotiations have been in progress between the State Government and the Federal Wheat Board in order to arrive at an arrangement suitable to the millers of this State which would place them on an equal footing with the millers of the mainland and enable them to sell flour to the bakers at £11 10s, the price fixed by the board. The position became more acute this week, when a deputation of millers waited on the Premier and explained that their mills would close at the end of the week if no wheat came forward immediately at the price obtainable on the mainland. As a result of Government negotiations, one shipment of 750 tons of wheat came forward recently, but further shipments have been refused.

A climax was reached yesterday, when the Prime Minister telegraphed saying that the Wheat Board could not accept the request for a reduction in the price of wheat to Tasmania. The State Cabinet considered the position, and decided to make further representations to the Federal authorities. The request of the millers for financial assistance to defray the cost of freight in the event of there being no reduction was declined, the Premier stating that it would involve a State expenditure of £8000.

WOOL MARKET.

POSITION OF FRENCH BUYERS.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

With the acquisition of the Australian wool clip by the Commonwealth on behalf of the Imperial Government, the operations of the French Government on the Australian markets were brought to an end, and for the past three months, although France has been badly in want of wool for military requirements, no orders could be filled in Australia. Representations made to the Imperial Government by the French authorities have resulted in the embargo being removed, and Australian representatives of the French Government are henceforward to be allowed to operate on the Australian markets, the wool they purchase being appraised in the usual manner. Moreover, the Imperial authorities have agreed to take charge of the shipping arrangements.

SOLDIER WITH REVOLVER.

SHOTS FIRED FROM TRAIN.

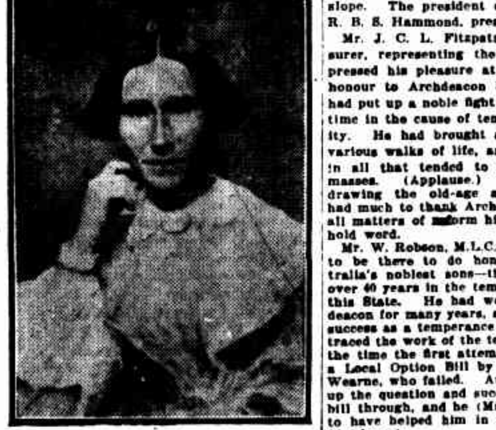

BATHURST, Sunday.

Ronald Esmond Price, aged 21, a soldier, was charged at the Police Court with wilfully interfering with the safety of passengers travelling on a passenger train between Bathurst and Millthorpe. It was stated for the prosecution that the accused had a revolver, and fired about 50 shots while the train was travelling, and navvies working on the line were in danger. Mr. Walker, chamber magistrate, remarked that as the accused was going to the front the Court would deal leniently with him. A fine of £2 or 14 days' imprisonment was imposed. The fine was paid.

NINETY-SIX YEARS IN AUSTRALIA.

LATE MRS. WAKEFIELD.

The late Mrs. Mary Wakefield, who passed away at her residence, Grafton-street, Woollahra, the widow of Francis Joseph Wakefield, had lived for 96 years in Australia. She was born at Pitt Town, near Windsor, in 1821, during the governorship of Macquarie. It was not till three years after her birth that Hume and Hovell "the first overlanders," commenced their long journey from Sydney to Port Phillip, so that the deceased lived through many of the most interesting events in Australian history. Her parents were both born in Tasmania, then known as Van Diemen's Land, in a period when "mists and shadows were lifting from the southern continent." Later the family journeyed in a sailing vessel—a mere cockle-shell boat—to New South Wales. The deceased's husband, whom she married at the age of 19, was captain of the 96th Regiment, and took part in the New Zealand war, which occurred about 70 years ago against the Maoris, and he received a medal as a memento of the campaign in the shape of a miniature sword set in gold.

A PORTRAIT TAKEN IN THE 'FORTIES.

Mrs. Wakefield retained her faculties right up to the time of her death. She could speak of the days when Australia was known merely as a penal settlement. Her father employed convicts as servants, a custom which she recalled as being popular to both the employers and the convicts, whose life of hardship was tolerably alleviated in being freed from the unwholesome atmosphere and petty tyranny that surrounded them on all sides. At the time the blacks were very numerous in the Hawkesbury district and the European population was but small and scattered.

Mrs. Wakefield was one of the gathering present at the official opening of the first railway from Sydney to Parramatta.

The deceased had six children, four of whom survive her; there are also 12 grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren.

HIGH SCHOOLS.

MINISTER GRATIFIED.

In issuing figures showing the attendances at High schools, on Saturday, the Minister for Education expressed gratification at the working of the system, and the number and regularity of the attendance shown in the rolls. It appeared, said Mr. James, that the State had reached a normal standard in regard to High school attendances. The net enrolment for High schools in 1916 was 5745, and at District schools 2251—a total of 7996. In 1915 the total was 7962.

"It is gratifying to note," said Mr. James, "that comparatively few High school students give up their studies after once setting their hands to the plough, for I find that while the net enrolment of High schools—that is, the number of individual students who were enrolled during 1916—number 5743, the average weekly enrolment for the whole year was 5077, and the number of pupils actually in attendance during the last week of the December quarter, after allowing for those who had left school on the completion of the full course, was 4886. Another pleasing feature of High school attendance is the regularity shown by pupils. The average weekly attendance for the year was 4834, or 95 per cent. of the enrolment. This is easily the highest average attendance yet attained in our High schools. Last year the average attendance was 93 per cent. There were 25 High schools, 3 intermediate High schools, and 20 District schools in operation last year.

"I would like to point out that the course of instruction is identical in the High schools and District schools," he continued, "the only difference being that a District school is attached to the Primary school, while a High school is completely separate. When the District school has a sufficient number of secondary pupils to warrant the establishment of a separate High school this is done. For instance, last year Mudgee and St. George's Girls were created High schools, while this year Wollongong has been raised to the status of a High school.

"The net enrolment at the District schools for 1916 was 2251, an increase of 107 on the figures for the preceding year. The average weekly enrolment, however, was 1761, a decrease of 17 on the previous year's figures. On the other hand, the average attendance increased from 90 per cent. to 95 per cent.

"The number of students who sat successfully for the leaving certificate examination," concluded the Minister, "is satisfactory evidence of the result of this fine attendance, and, to my mind, the most pleasing feature of the year's work has been the success that has attended the efforts of pupils attending the country Secondary schools. 470 Public school students gained the leaving certificate, and of these 196 came from country schools."

A GREAT REFORMER

TRIBUTE TO ARCHDEACON BOYCE.

Advantage was taken of the thirty-fourth anniversary of the New South Wales Alliance on Saturday to tender to Archdeacon Boyce a harbour excursion, at which he was presented with a portrait of himself, painted in oils by Mr. Julian Ashton, in recognition of his long and valuable services to the cause of temperance. A tour of the harbour was made on board one of the Sydney Ferries steamers, there being over 700 on board. The party landed at Nielsen Park, where a number of improvements, including a wharf, have been carried out. A regular ferry service has also been established.

The presentation took place on a grassy slope. The president of the Alliance, Rev. R. B. S. Hammond, presided.

Mr. J. C. L. Fitzpatrick, Assistant Treasurer, representing the State Ministry, expressed his pleasure at being present to do honour to Archdeacon Boyce, who, he said, had put up a noble fight during almost a lifetime in the cause of temperance and humanity. He had brought about reforms in the various walks of life, and had been a leader in all that tended to the uplifting of the masses. (Applause.) Those who were drawing the old-age and invalid pensions had much to thank Archdeacon Boyce for. In all matters of reform his name was a household word.

Mr. W. Robson, M.L.C., said he was pleased to be there to do honour to one of Australia's noblest sons—the foremost man for over 40 years in the temperance movement of this State. He had worked with the Archdeacon for many years, and knew of his great success as a temperance leader. Mr. Robson traced the work of the temperance party from the time the first attempt was made to pass a Local Option Bill by the late Mr. Joseph Wearne, who failed. Archdeacon Boyce took up the question and succeeded in getting the bill through, and he (Mr. Robson) was proud to have helped him in all his undertakings. (Applause).

Mr. W. Clegg spoke on behalf of the Alliance.

The president, before making the presentation delivered a stirring speech. Under the leadership of Archdeacon Boyce much had been accomplished in the way of reform. (Applause.) No Government in advertising the advantages possessed in this State ever mentioned the liquor trade as one. They told the world about the harbour, the shipping, and the primary products, but not a word about the facilities for obtaining drink. That was something always to be kept in the background. Only 22 per cent. of the present Parliament voted for 6 o'clock closing, but when the question came to the people, 60 per cent. of the electors declared for 6 o'clock, and yet Parliament was supposed to be a reflex of the will of the people. The next election would perhaps tell a tale. (Applause.) Archdeacon Boyce joined the temperance movement in 1871. Five years later in Orange he started the agitation for local option. In 1882 he came to Sydney and began a great fight in the temperance cause, rallying all the forces. He inaugurated the Alliance, which was representative of every Church, temperance reform party, and every well-meaning citizen. A great fight, led by Archdeacon Boyce, was put up for strict Sunday closing. It was at last secured, and it had done much good for the community. For 32 years the Archdeacon has compiled the drink bill for this country, and so reliable were his figures that they had been quoted officially, both in and out of Parliament. (Applause.) In 1911 he began the movement for earlier closing, a movement which at last culminated in 6 o'clock closing during the war period, but the Alliance was determined to see that 6 o'clock closing remained permanently on the statute book. (Loud cheers.) No Government would be game enough to remove it, so popular had it become. During Archdeacon Boyce's term of office as president of the Alliance, the population of the State had doubled itself, but the number of hotels had decreased by 800—(applause)—and the day would come when the hotel bars would be wiped out altogether. (Cheers.) The expenditure on drink per head of the population was £7 when Archdeacon Boyce first started his work; to-day it was only £3 12s per head. (Cheers.) The granting of the old-age pensions was largely secured by the efforts of Archdeacon Boyce, who also fought strenuously for women suffrage. He was the founder of Empire Day, and his great work for Empire Day here had borne fruit. (Applause.) In many other ways their guest had done nobly for Australia, and many homes to-day were brighter and happier for his labour in the cause of progress and reform. (Loud cheers.)

The president handed to Archdeacon Boyce a portrait of himself in oils.

Archdeacon Boyce, who was accorded an ovation, said the gathering brought back happy memories of the past. He saw before him faces of men who had been associated with him for a lifetime in the great work of reform. Some were present who 40 years ago were at his side in Orange. He had had some hard times as well as some cruel knocks in the fight against the drink traffic. They had even been dragged into the mire on several occasions, but they had risen above it all. And why? Because they had right on their side, and right had prevailed against might. (Applause.) He was once told that he was the most abused man in public life, but he had many stanch friends whose friendship and assistance he valued, and, above all, God was with them. Their cause was for humanity, and the efforts of the temperance workers had been endorsed by the Allies since the outbreak of war. Greater achievements still would be theirs. (Cheers.) He was delighted to realise that he had such a worthy successor in Mr. Hammond, whose voice would be heard and whose fighting powers would be felt throughout the State. (Cheers.)

FARMERS' UNION.

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE DECISIONS

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

A conference of delegates representing branches of the Farmers' Union in the North-eastern district was held at Wangaratta yesterday, when it was unanimously decided:—"That this conference declares that producers will not feel themselves bound by any decision of the Imperial Conference or any future economic conference bearing on the disposal of Australian primary products without consultation, and a mandate from the producers through their organisations; and that the producers object to one Government disposing of primary products in bulk, as was done in the case of wool."

RECRUITING.

"NOW OR NEVER."

MR. PETER BOWLING'S APPEAL

Mr. Peter Bowling, who is engaged as an organiser of the P.L.L., touring the northern districts, is losing no opportunity of advocating the objects of the New South Wales Recruiting Committee.

The organising secretary has been informed by local residents that his appeals are bearing good results. At a political meeting which he held at Armidale last week, he urged all who could, while time yet offered, to go to the help of the brave boys already in the trenches. He was certain if the remaining men in Australia could but visit France, and see the need for themselves, there would not be one who would not spring to arms to lend a hand. It was now or never for the Allies, and the fight in the coming spring would be a terrible one. The Australians were opposed to soldiers who knew no scruples, and it was a matter of death or glory for them. He had told his own two boys never to surrender to a German. All who could should go, and all who could give money should give it. In fact, the man who had the money and would not give it was more recreant to his trust than the man who would not fight. If Germany won, it would be good-bye to every Australian hope and ideal.

"I appeal, therefore, most earnestly for recruits," said Mr. Bowling. "I sternly decry the white-feather madness or the 'cold-footer' insult. I appeal to the true British spirit which, I am sure, lives in every Australian's breast. Remember, my countrymen, it is now or never."

WIN-THE-WAR DAY.

A special sub-committee, which has been called together to assist the State Recruiting Committee in making the detailed arrangements for the celebration of Win-the-War League Day, is hard at work, and meets every day at the recruiting headquarters, Commonwealth Bank-buildings. Circular letters have been addressed to all those who, in the past, rendered assistance to the Hospital Saturday Fund and the United Charities Association organisations. Members of the Australian Women War Workers' Clerical Association and the Australian Women's Service Corps have also been asked to assist. It is pointed out by the committee that there will be no collection of funds on that day, and the only money that will pass will be the fee of membership of the Win-the-War League, which is the nominal amount of sixpence. A celluloid button, the badge of the league, will be handed to each new member enrolled. The same badge in a more substantial form, being of metal, artistically enamelled, will be sold for the sum of one shilling and sixpence. The heads of all business houses, factories, etc., are being circularised with a view to the making of arrangements for the appointment of canvassers within their establishments.

The ladies, representing various ladies' athletic and sporting associations, have made a request to be allotted a certain block in the city, and certain stands at the various sporting clubs. Mesdames Fitzhardinge, Barry, and Hill, who are representing the sporting ladies, will be present at the meeting of the sub-committee this afternoon, when the request will be formally brought forward. The Actors' Association is rendering great assistance, and the various theatrical managers are making arrangements in connection with the recruiting rally which is to take place throughout the State on the day referred to.

The local War Service Committees in the country are taking the matter up with great interest, and are making their own special arrangements with regard to pageants and demonstrations calculated to stir their particular committees. All shire presidents and municipal mayors have been requested to lend the weight of their official positions, and are asked to co-operate with the local committee.

AT THE BARRACKS.

The figures for last week at the barracks are not encouraging. General Ramaciotti, C.M.G., V.D., stated that when recently in Melbourne he noticed a big placard on the Melbourne Town Hall, the chief recruiting depot in Victoria, which ran: "General Birdwood cables, 'Why are reinforcement units from Victoria supplied by New South Wales?'" At the present rate of recruiting in New South Wales a similar cable might be shortly expected here, for the daily figures for the last seven days present the sorry total of only 173, made up as follows:—Sunday, 18; Monday, 38; Tuesday, 21; Wednesday, 30; Thursday, 27; Friday, 17; and Saturday, 22.

Among the week-end recruits were a cable operator, a bootmaker, a fireman, two students, three grocers, a hairdresser, a staff sergeant-major, a grazier, a journalist, a station hand, and a builder and contractor.

IN OTHER STATES.

MELBOURNE, Sunday.

The enlistments on Saturday were:—Thirty-one men offered, 18 accepted.

STADIUM RALLY.

The thousands of men who attended the big fight at the Stadium on Saturday night were specially appealed to through the medium of four large posters, conspicuously displayed, on which it was pointed out that every man was needed, and the call was made for those who could, to enlist now. The rally at the Stadium on Friday night next, promises to be a big success. The chair will be taken by the Lord Mayor (Ald. R. D. Meagher), and the speakers will be Senator Millen and Dean Talbot.

SOME SUGGESTIONS.

THE ORANGE CONFERENCE.

A number of proposals for the purpose of stimulating recruiting have been prepared by the Condobolin Recruiting Committee, and will be submitted by the delegates of that body, Archdeacon Neild and Mr. A. G. Carruthers, to a conference of all recruiting committees in the Calare electorate, to be held at Orange. Amongst other suggestions is one that Parliament be called together for a sitting to deal with the repatriation of soldiers, and that every man who has left, or leaves a permanent position, either in public or private employ, be assured of reinstatement, or otherwise suitably provided for under the repatriation scheme. It is further suggested that the system of land settlement at present proposed be amended so as to provide that all Crown lands offered for settlement be open to the public, soldiers getting preference.

The committee proposes that a circular containing the following be forwarded to every adult in the Calare electorate:—

MEN OF AUSTRALIA.

This year will decide who are to be the victors in the great war.

Will you fight for the Empire, and your fredom, and win victory for our race?

There are only two ways the war can end for us—"we win or we lose."

Are you going to help win, or are you going to take a beating lying down?

Volunteer now, and show the world that the Australian never deserts his mate.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES.

GOSFORD, Sunday.

The local executive of the War Service Committee has decided to write to the War Service Council urging that, in order to stimulate recruiting, all eligible men in Government employment (indispensable men excepted) be asked to enlist, and failing compliance their places be filled by returned soldiers.

PROPOSED PROHIBITION OF SPORT.

Extensive arrangements have been made during the last week for the successful celebration of Win-the-War Day, next Friday. Circular letters have been despatched to each worker associated with the Hospital Saturday and United Charities' Day, asking for co-operation. A meeting of all the workers will be held in one of the theatres on Thursday next, between 1 and 2 p.m.

The organising secretary, Captain Coates, stated on Saturday that all war service committees throughout the State were being invited to continue their efforts to obtain war loan subscriptions, as the closing day for the new loan had been postponed till March 31. The Commonwealth Treasurer had particularly referred to the publicity which had been given to the loan through the State recruiting committees, and had expressed the opinion that, in view of the early payment of a large amount of money to people engaged in the wool and wheat industries, the State committee might be able to secure a large number of new subscribers.

At the monthly meeting of the Hornsby War Service Committee, Mr. Pentey moved:—"That, in the opinion of this committee, it would help recruiting if all sports, except those for school children, were prohibited, and that this resolution be forwarded to the State Recruiting Committee, with a recommendation that the importance of this step be urged upon the Federal Government." Further consideration of the matter was adjourned till the next meeting of the committee.

TO-DAY'S MEETINGS.

Lunch-hour meeting: Nock and Kirby's, at 12.30 and 1.30 p.m. (Speakers, Sergeant-major Donald and others.)

Anthony Hordern's factory, Redfern, 1 (Speakers, Recruiting Officer Bickford and others.)

Rockdale: Town Hall, 8 p.m. (Speakers, Miss Scobie, Sergeant-major Donald, Mr. Murray, and Mr. Thompson.)

Richmond: Town Hall, 8 p.m. (Speakers, Lieutenant Thompson and others.)

North Sydney: Town Hall, 8 p.m. Speaker: Mr. Dugald Thomson.)

Miss Gladys Owen, secretary of the Red Cross Society, has temporarily placed her services at the disposal of the State Recruiting Committee, she having been granted leave of absence by the society. She is acting in a voluntary capacity, and is carrying out an organising and speaking itinerary from Newcastle to Quirindi. This afternoon she will address a meeting of the women at Singleton, and at night will attend a meeting of the local War Service Committee. Miss Owen then proceeds to Greta, Muswellbrook, Scone, Murrurundi, Quirindi, and other centres in the Federal electorates of Robertson and Gwydir.

It is stated at headquarters that a selection of men for the Australian Field Artillery will take place at Victoria Barracks next Friday, at 10 a.m. All candidates must be of good physique.

Home service men in the Commonwealth have complained that owing to the fact that they have nothing to show that they have volunteered for active service and been rejected, they often have to put up with unjust criticism. The authorities have now decided to issue a distinctive badge to these men when in uniform. The badge is a red star with a white centre on a khaki background, and will be worn on the left sleeve. The badge will only be issued to those who have volunteered or been rejected.

With reference to civilian regulations, in future all recommendations for extension of service of temporary employees of military age, in the Defence Department are to be accompanied by a certificate that there are no returned soldiers or rejected volunteers to fill the positions.

No. 1088, Sergeant A. G. Edwards, 3rd Battalion, was tried by District Court-martial at Victoria Barracks and sentenced to be reduced to the ranks and undergo 42 days' detention for resisting an escort.

FORBES, Sunday.

As the result of representations made by the secretary of the War Service Committee, the military authorities have arranged that recruits for active service may now be finally examined by Major M'Donnell, A.A.M.A., and passed into camp.

DROWNING ACCIDENT.

TWO BROTHERS DISAPPEAR.

Two brothers named White, whose people are staying at Narrabeen on holiday, left their home in Lagoon-street on Friday at 11 a.m., and were later seen playing amongst some boats on the lake. They were sent away from the boats, and afterwards were seen near the bridge, crossing the lakes towards Newport. As they failed to return at night the police were informed, and the lakes were dragged all night, with the result that on Saturday morning the body of the elder of the two, Kenneth, aged 14 years, was recovered near the bridge by Mr. Heaton, in about 20 feet of water. The body of the younger boy, Stanley, aged 11 years, has not yet been found. The parents reside at North Sydney. It is presumed that the boys were playing near the bridge, and that one fell in and the other went in after him. Neither could swim.

WAR WIDOWS.

HOME OPENED AT OATLEY.

The Hurstville Voluntary Workers' Association opened their first cottage on Saturday afternoon at Waratah-street, Oatley. Those present included Dr. Arthur, M.L.A. (originator of the Voluntary Workers' Association), Captain Toombs, M.L.A., Dr. Mary Booth, Mr. G. Fitzpatrick (organising secretary), and Mrs. Richardson (assisting secretary). The home, which is of weatherboard, with all modern conveniences, was handed over by Dr. Arthur, to Mrs. Lemon, whose husband, Sergeant Lemon, was killed at Lone Pine on August 6, 1915. The ceremony was presided over by the Mayor of Hurstville, Alderman Bradford.

Dr. Arthur made a vigorous appeal for more workers to help the men who had returned disabled, and said that he considered it a crying shame that there should be over a hundred members of the Australian Women's Service Corps doing manual work in the building of homes at French's Forest, while there were thousands of able-bodied young men shirking their responsibilities, and attending the races and other sports. He did not think the race-goers were one bit worse than the cricketers or other alleged sports, who carried on this useless pleasure. The speaker said he was grateful for what had been accomplished by the various voluntary workers, but would not rest content until thousands were assisting.

MEAT EMPLOYEES' UNION.

RETAIL SHOPS BOYCOTTED.

The Meat Employees' Union is in a state of unrest at the present moment, and much secrecy has been observed in the meetings held during the week-end. The trouble appears to have originated some time ago, when the retail butchers obtained a variation of the award governing the trade by which they were allowed to keep their shops open till 5.30 p.m., in place of 5 p.m. as previously. The members of the union met the alteration of the working hours with undisguised disapproval, and, in the case of one employer in Rawson-place, who decided upon the latter hour from January 1 this year, the shopmen refused to work beyond the original hour fixed in the award. Other shopmen were obtained to take their place, with the result that the union took steps to prevent supplies of meat from reaching this shop. This led to an injunction being served upon the union, in addition to being cited to appear before the Industrial Court this morning to show cause why the registration of the union should not be cancelled for having committed a breach of the award. On Friday morning last representatives of the men waited on the carcase butchers at the meat depot, and informed them that if they continued to supply certain shops with meat the slaughtermen would be called out. It is stated that about 14 shops only were affected, the others having decided to close at 5 p.m. No meat was supplied to the shops in question, but they were able, however, to obtain sufficient supplies to carry them over the week-end from independent sources.

COURSE AT ALDERSHOT.

FOR AUSTRALIAN OFFICERS.

The following Australian officers now on duty at the front were recently selected by General Birdwood to attend a course of instruction in the duties appertaining to battalion command, held at Aldershot:—Major J. M. Maughan, D.S.O., 17th Battalion; Major H. A. Crowther, 22nd Battalion; Major H. W. Lee, 4th Pioneer Battalion; Captains A. K. Mackenzie, 1st Battalion; J. H. P. Eller, 6th Battalion; A. R. Knightley, 9th Battalion; F. R. Chalmers, 27th Battalion; and C. H. Howden, 49th Battalion.

MR. T. H. ESLICK ENTERTAINED.

LIBERAL CANDIDATE FOR PADDINGTON.

For a considerable period all charitable works in Paddington have received most generous help from Mr. T. H. Eslick, the general manager of the White City, and on Saturday afternoon the Paddington Liberal Association entertained Mr. Eslick, who is coming forward as a candidate at the next election in the Liberal interests, at a picnic at Clark Island. A fine sports programme was arranged for the young folks, side shows were provided, and light refreshments were served. Among those present were: Mr. J. C. L. Fitzpatrick, M.L.A., (assistant treasurer), Mr. T. J. Hoskins, M.L.A., Mr. C. W. Oakes, Alderman Marsh (Mayor of Paddington), Mr. J. White, Mr. Horace Hills, Mr. Percy Hunter, and Mr. Archdale Parkhill.

Replying to the toast of his health, Mr. Eslick said he was proud to be an Englishman, and he was proud of a country like Australia. His proudest moment would be when he had carried the Paddington Liberal banner to decisive victory. He laid no claim to great political experience. He was a "new chum," but if earnest endeavour, backed up by some business experience, would help Paddington, then he was out to help with all his power. (Applause.)

ELECTORAL REFORM.

ADULT SUFFRAGE IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, Feb. 11.

The national council in connection with the adult suffrage movement held a great meeting in London. Whilst welcoming the resolutions of the recent conference convened by the Speaker as a step in the right direction, the council urged the Government to introduce a simple generous franchise for adults, men and women. Among others present was Mr. Appleton, secretary of the General Federation of Trades Unions, and labour adviser to Sir Neville Chamberlain (Director of National Service), Mr. G. J. Wardle (Labour member for Stockport), and Mr. Williams, of the National Transporters' Federation.

Mr. J. L. Garvin (editor of the "Observer") wrote that he had been a convert since the war had shown that the progressive strength and vitality of the State was dependent upon both sexes.

Sir John Simon agreed, and hoped that the reform would be carried out in an orderly and constitutional manner with a view to obtaining the State's acceptance of the principle of women's suffrage. Once Parliament had removed the barrier nothing could prevent water from finding its level.

It was resolved that it was essential that the scheme should include wage-earning women and also the wives of wage-earners.

WAR LOAN DAY.

LONDON, Feb. 9.

The Lord Mayor inaugurated the War Loan Day in London to-day. One hundred thousand other meetings were also held in workshops and offices in the provinces. Principal assemblage was held on the steps of the Royal Exchange. The band of the Coldstream Guards played patriotic airs during lunch time, and a crowd filled the square.

The Lord Mayor, in a brief appeal, invited everyone to the Lord Mayor's parlour, where they could invest their savings in the loan. Hundreds of all classes of people responded, the Coldstream Guards Band meanwhile playing "The Hymn of Hate."

A feature of the meeting in Trafalgar-square was an exhibition of captured war trophies—machine guns, trench mortars, and field guns, in which the Dominion soldiers were especially interested.

Sir Joseph Ward delivered speeches on the War Loan at Wakefield and Grimsby, and will visit Leicester, Preston, and Newcastle on a similar mission next week.

The citizens' War Loan meeting in Belfast subscribed £1,000,000, making the city's contribution £4,500,000.

Sixty-two million war savings' certificates have been sold in Britain during the year.

LONDON, Feb. 10.

The war loan campaign throughout the country has been vigorous and enthusiastic, the masses, from the poorest, responding splendidly. From industrial firms money is pouring in in large sums. The firms are helping workers in every conceivable way to subscribe moities of wages.

THE LIQUOR TRADE.

LONDON, Feb. 9.

The Convocation of Canterbury passed a resolution favouring the State purchase of the liquor trade.

During the discussion the Dean of Hereford suggested a beerless day.

Canon Aitken said the State purchase would enable a reduction to be made in the strength of liquor. If English beer were the same strength as German lager, intemperance would decrease.

The Dean of Canterbury opposed the motion, saying that alcohol was necessary for many people. Prohibition would result in the loss of a large amount of mental energy. He deplored the effect of stopping the soldiers' spirit ration. The French troops' health had been benefited by the use of wines.

RUSSIAN FINANCE.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 10.

M. Bark (Minister for Finance), addressing a gathering of editors, said the revenue exceeded the Estimates by 800,000,000 roubles. The savings banks numbered 12,000, as compared with 8000 before the war. Many depositors had transferred part of their savings to the war loan, which was extremely successful.

VENEREAL PROBLEM.

LONDON, Feb. 10.

The Home Secretary, Sir George Cave, has given notice of a Criminal Law Amendment Bill, providing for further punishment for sexual offences, and the prevention of indecent advertisements, while the communication of venereal disease knowingly is to be made a criminal offence.

Another bill is contemplated, prohibiting secret venereal remedies, and providing for the suppression of quacks. The Government does not contemplate compulsory notification.

THE LONDON EXPLOSION.

LONDON, Feb. 10.

A technical newspaper estimates the damage caused by the recent munitions factory explosion at £1,000,000.

PARISIAN NEWSPAPERS.

PARIS, Feb. 9.

The Government has decided to reduce the newspapers on the basis of price and size.

Those sold at 5 centimes will be restricted to two pages on Mondays and Thursdays, and to four pages on other days.

CONGREGATIONAL UNION.

LONDON, Feb. 9.

The annual report of the Congregational Union shows there are 4989 churches, with 489,616 members, and 633,656 Sunday-school scholars. The latter shows a decrease of 12,953 during the year.

MANUKA, FROM WELLINGTON.

A wireless message was received last night from the captain of the Union Company's steamer Manuka, stating that he expected to arrive off the Heads at 8 p.m. to-day. The Manuka was late in leaving Wellington, not clearing the port until 11 p.m. last Thursday.

OBITUARY.

DUKE OF NORFOLK.

LONDON, Feb. 11.

The death is announced of the Duke of Norfolk, aged 70 years.

[The late Duke of Norfolk was the premier duke and earl, and hereditary earl marshal and claimed to be hereditary chief butler of England. This office was claimed by two others before the Court of Claims at the coronation of King Edward VII., but the matter was not adjudicated upon. He is succeeded by his son, the Earl of Arundel, who will be the sixteenth Duke of Norfolk. The new duke is only 9 years of age.]

SIR MELBOURNE TAIT.

QUEBEC, Feb. 10.

The death is announced of Sir Melbourne Tait, formerly Chief Justice of Quebec, in his 75th year.

DOUBLE INCOME TAX.

LONDON, Feb. 9.

Mr. Dutton presided at an influential meeting of the association formed to protest against the duplication of the income tax within the Empire, to inaugurate a campaign before the Budget is presented.

It was resolved to re-affirm the resolution carried on February 28, 1916. The Hon. Herbert Gibbs, in moving it, suggested prominence should be given to the fact that the double war tax was adding a burden to a minority of the people of the Empire.

Sir John Rees, M.P., and Mr. Basil Peto, M.P., said they believed Mr. Bonar Law would treat the subject in a much better way than his predecessor.

Mr. Alan Burgoyne suggested the subject should be raised at the Imperial Conference. It was resolved to ask Mr. Bonar Law to receive a deputation before he delivered his next Budget speech.

BRITISH POLITICS.

UNITY OF PARTIES.

LONDON, Feb. 8.

Mr. Bonar Law (Chancellor of the Exchequer), speaking in Liverpool, said it was wonderful how party spirit had disappeared. Not the least pleasing thing was the part Labour had played in the House of Commons. One of the greatest social reforms of the future would be a fairer distribution of wealth without drying up the sources of wealth, they could look back on the past thirty months with pride, and look forward with confidence.

COTTON GROWING.

LONDON, Feb. 11.

A deputation from the cotton trade waited on Mr. Roberts, of the Board of Trade, to urge the development of cotton growing in suitable parts of the Empire, and the appointment of a departmental committee to consider the matter.

Mr. Tom Garnett emphasised the cotton growing possibilities of Queensland and South Africa.

Mr. Roberts, in reply, said the time was opportune for a careful survey of the question. An opportunity would possibly be afforded at the coming Imperial Conference to discuss the matter.

TOBACCO PROFITS.

LONDON, Feb. 8.

The Imperial Tobacco Company's report shows a net profit of £3,912,259.

KING'S SCHOOL COMMEMORATION.

The annual commemoration and old boys' day, in connection with the King's School, Parramatta, took place on Saturday, commencing in the morning with the celebration of holy communion in the school chapel. In the afternoon a cricket match was held between teams representing the old boys of the present-day students. The former scored 58 in their first innings, and the latter 13. J. Bettingham (21) was the highest scorer for the old boys, and Bettington, II. (3) and Walters (29) were highest for the scholars of to-day. Among the old boys present was a number of those who had volunteered for the front or had returned, and others noticed were Messrs. Bettington, Bundock, Mitchell, Downes, Potts, Lloyd, E. L. Waddy, M.P., and E. Body. After cricket there were swimming matches and other sports. Afternoon tea was served by Mrs. Pattinson, wife of the headmaster, and the staff. There was a very large gathering of the mothers, wives, and sisters of the old boys, and present students from all parts of Sydney and suburbs and country districts. Later in the afternoon there was divine service in the chapel for old boys and parents, the preacher being the Rev. A. H. Garnsey, M.A., Warden of St. Paul's College, who took as his subject the words "Serving the Lord," Corinthians 12-11. The Revs. Canon Mort, J. A. Pattinson, and E. Lampard assisted at the service.

After dinner in the evening there was a large gathering in the dining-room at the school, over which the headmaster presided. Interesting speeches were delivered, and a number of presentations made.

FINANCIAL.

STRENGTH OF UNITED STATES

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

LAST YEAR'S COLOSSAL FIGURES.

If she has to face war the United States will be financially and commercially in as strong a position as was Great Britain when she took up the German challenge in August, 1914. It is the war which has made the United States financially and commercially of such strength. The war has converted her from a debtor nation to a creditor nation. She owns more of other countries' securities than other countries own of her securities.

It is trade which has made the finance of the United States, which has made her for the time being at any rate the centre whither the gold flows. In trade the United States has a credit balance; in the past because she was been a debtor nation; in the last two years because she is a creditor nation. The United States had in the past imports of large quantities of capital, and the credit balance of that trade paid for the loan of that capital. In the last two years that credit balance has assumed enormous proportions. Her exports of war material to the Allies, and her manufactures of industrial material for the whole world, made the world, and principally the Allies, her debtor. She paid off a great part of her indebtedness with these exports, and there still being a large credit balance to spare, she lent it to the Allies. Let us see how it works out. We quote from the financial supplement of the "New York Times" the trade figures as follows:—

Year.	Total Trade. Imports and Exports. £		Credit balance, Excess of Exports. £
'13	855,322,904	..	138,784,362
'14	786,389,019	..	64,369,619
'15	1,000,213,413	..	353,779,765
'16	1,365,000,000	..	612,400,000

But this is by no means all the story. The home trade after all tells the prosperity of a country. But the trouble is to estimate the trade. If the foreign trade is prosperous it means that there is money to spend because necessaries on the home trade. Professor Anderson, of Harvard University, has calculated the home trade of the United States for a series of years on a retail price basis, and his estimate have been described as showing the demand from the ultimate consumers upon the industry of the United States. That home trade in 1916 is estimated by Professor Anderson at £9,160,000,000, or an increase of 40 per cent. on the year, compared with an increase in exports of 53 per cent. That puts the trading position in a clear light.

It is the profits from the foreign trading during the past two years which have altered the whole financial position of the United States. From the outbreak of war to the end of 1916 the net gold imports were of the value of £188,000,000. In addition, American securities to the value of £40,000,000 were brought to the United States from abroad and foreign securities to the value of £430,000,000 were purchased. It is estimated that the American securities held abroad now amount to £400,000,000, not quite half of the pre-war amount. The great import of gold brought the gold in the country close of the year up to £548,323,000, an increase of 21 per cent. on the year. Naturally there was a plethora of money. There was, in the popular phrase, money to burn. Speculation ran wild, and American financiers became alarmed that the speculation would attain the constable, and a crash would ensue. The banks restricted loans as much as possible, but there was so much money in their coffers on which they had to make a profit that there was a temptation not to be too discriminating. Bank loans alone advanced to £1,678,000,000—an increase of 15 per cent. on the year. With the first breath of the possibility of peace in November there was a wild rush of the speculators to sell, and prices not alone in stocks and shares, but also in products such as wheat and cotton, dropped amazingly. This was the opportunity of investors to purchase, and they did so on a large scale. But the fall of the speculators made a healthier financial and commercial situation, and at the commencement of the new year both bankers and traders were more confident.

What would be the effect of the United States entering the war? Would the supplies to ourselves and our Allies cease? It is probable that the effect will not be so detrimental to us as if it had happened a year ago. As far as news is allowed to be given, we can judge that Great Britain can now manufacture all the munitions she wants. That was indicated when an English firm tendered to supply America with a certain description of shells. Still, steel is wanted; but no doubt there would be an arrangement by which Great Britain and her Allies would get what they wanted. With the warning of two years before them the United States naval authorities are probably well supplied with munitions. Large supplies of foodstuffs have gone forward from the United States, and if she put an army into the field these foodstuffs, or a large part of them, would be diverted to the army, and the Allies would be forced to lay, if possible, other countries under contribution or economise with their supplies. This, it seems to us, is the only danger to the Allies should the United States take any large part in the field operations.

It has been asked whether if (a) the United States entered into the war the Allies would be able to obtain loans? The question is due to a misconception of the part which the loans of America have paid. Britain has not borrowed from America, because she had no credit at home, but because she found it impossible to shift what credit she had at home to America. She was indebted to America for goods supplied, and unless she paid a ruinous rate of exchange, she had to increase her credit in America. That increase of credit was lent to her by American financiers for a consideration. If America is still able to sell the goods, the United States financiers will still be able and willing to sell credit to Great Britain should she so desire it. What it really means is that Great Britain postpones paying for a few years for some of the goods she purchased. That payment is made by the United States financiers.

FRESH FOOD AND ICE.

The report of the N.S.W. Fresh Food and Ice Company, Ltd., covers the 12 months ended December 31. It shows a net profit of £13,732, from which a dividend of 4 per cent. paid in August last, absorbing £6604, must be deducted, leaving £7127 available. A further dividend of 4 per cent. is proposed, and the carrying of £500 to the reserve fund for the equalisation of dividends, leaving £23 to be carried forward. The sum of £4077 carried forward from the previous year has been transferred to the reserve for equalisation of dividends. Business has been well maintained, but expenses continue to grow, and the limitation of prices adversely affects the company's operations in some directions. The following comparison may be made.

The capital is £125,000, the dividend reserve £32,557, and reserve and renewal account £14,000. Capital expenditure has amounted to £162,671, stores are valued at £5725. Deposits and war loan amount to £6212.

PRESSURE ON AN ACCOUNTANT.

Some extraordinary correspondence between Lord Northcliffe and Sir William Plender, a well-known accountant, has been published. The extraordinary part is furnished by Lord Northcliffe. Sir William Plender was appointed by the Government as controller of the London branches of certain German banks. These branches, in the words of the "Economist," are being wound up by the payment of non-enemy creditors, and realisation of assets for that purpose, and no other business is being done. The rate at which the winding up progressed did not please Lord Northcliffe, and he wrote both to Mr. McKenna, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Sir William Plender, on the matter. The replies did not please him, and Lord Northcliffe informed Mr. McKenna: "We have therefore decided to ask Sir William to withdraw from his connection with the 'Times' and other newspapers if the German policy of keeping alive the German businesses is to be continued." At the same time, Lord Northcliffe paid a tribute to the valuable services which Sir William Plender had rendered him in the accounting of the "Times" and other large interests. Sir William Plender rejoined, while appreciating the kind expressions used in regard to their personal relations, "I cannot permit any considerations of personal benefit to myself or my firm to induce me to retire from a position to which I have been appointed by the Government." Inasmuch, such a retirement would be embarrassing to the Government. The "Economist" comments:—"We do not doubt for a moment that Lord Northcliffe believes that by so acting he is doing his best for his country, and we are convinced that his desire to do so is the sole spring of all his actions at this time. But this measure of his will inevitably be seized on as an arbitrary abuse of money power, and those who hold the money-power must remember that its exercise is now being watched with great jealousy and suspicion. To penalise a professional man in his professional capacity because he is doing work under Government orders, in a way that does not meet with one's approval is a most ill-considered way of trying to hit the Government through the private interest of a worker on its behalf." The procedure has caused much stir in accounting circles in London, and the "Accountant" writes that it is inconceivable that any firm of standing in the profession would allow itself to be nominated to succeed Sir William Pender's firm in the auditorship.

REPLACING GERMAN GOODS.

The opening of the war found the British Empire dependent upon Germany for many necessary articles. The manufacture of many of these articles is now an accomplished fact, and, despite the boast of German manufacturers that their goods are inevitably superior to those of British manufacture, the British manufacturers are supremely confident that the trade which has now been taken away from Germany will not return. One of the manufactures for which we were dependent upon Germany was that of porcelain for laboratory purposes. This was practically a German monopoly, turned out at the Imperial factory at Charlottenburg. Once the stock of these became exhausted many manufactures into which chemicals enter and which need constant experimenting and testing would have been in a precarious position. Among them would have been munition making. Doulton and Co., Ltd., set their chemists to work on the problem, and after many experiments, succeeded in discovering the composition of the German article, and in producing similar ware from materials as they were available. Crucibles, evaporating dishes, filtering funnels, a variety of special vessels used for mineralogical and assaying purposes, and known only by the names of their German inventors, and other articles of hard porcelain suited to laboratory work have been manufactured. According to reports from chemists and analysts who have used them, they are equal, if not actually superior to the ware produced by the German Imperial factory, and they are supplied at prices practically identical with those of the German articles before the war.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Customs authorities have supplied the "Argus" with amended figures regarding the trade of Australia in 1916. These figures show that imports in the calender year were of the value of £81,081,229, and exports £72,363,294.

THE MORATORIUM.

A VICTORIAN CASE.

MORATORIUM DOES NOT APPLY.

A case decided in the Practice Court of Victoria on Thursday throws some light on the working of the moratorium. Before Mr. Justice Cussen (reports the "Argus") application was made for an order that the War Precautions regulations should not apply in the case of a mortgage from George Moore to Frederick Richard Esnouf and others, trustees of the Doutta Galla Lodge, Manchester Unity, in respect of house property in Raleigh-street, Northcote. Moore, it was stated, is now a soldier on active service abroad, had given a mortgage for £280, and in June last, before enlisting, had assigned his estate for the benefit of his creditors. Moore's wife had also left Victoria, being in Tasmania. The interest on the mortgage was not paid, the insurance had been allowed to lapse, and the trustees of the assigned estate would not do anything in the matter. A second mortgagee, Dr. Fyfe, had been informed of the application, but neither the trustee nor Dr. Fyfe appeared. Mr. Rigby pointed out that there was power under the moratorium regulations for the Court to order that they should not apply if in special circumstances they were not necessary. In this case, the mortgagor had no further interest in the property, and those who were interested did not oppose the application. Mr. Justice Cussen made an order, giving leave to the first mortgagees to exercise their power of sale over the property, taking proper care of all other interests, and with liberty to apply for foreclosure if necessary.

ENDANGERING SECURITY OF MORTGAGE.

The moratorium regulations provide that the redemption or repayment of a mortgage may be ordered by the Court where it is satisfied that, by reason of the wasting nature of the security, the continuance of the mortgage would seriously affect the security, or that the conduct of the mortgagor has, in respect of any breaches by him of the covenants of the mortgage, or in respect of any matter affecting the rights or remedies of the mortgagee, or in respect of dealings with the mortgagee, been such as to render him undeserving of the benefit or protection of the moratorium. The Supreme Court of New Zealand has decided on several occasions the way in which a security may be endangered. Thus, for instance, to break a covenant to farm the property in a husband-like manner, causing thereby a serious depreciation in the value thereof, is one way. And so, where the mortgaged property is a leasehold, a breach of any covenant contained in the lease might endanger the mortgagee's security by reason of the landlord's power of re-entry. In another instance the mortgagor allowed the interest payable to the first mortgagee to get seriously in arrear. That was held to have the effect of seriously endangering the security of the second mortgagee. The result of the mortgagor's default in that case was to increase the burden on the property to the prejudice of the second mortgagee.

PRODUCE.

AUSTRALIAN BUTTER MARKETS

Prescott, Ltd., writes as follows:—

Butter.—The increased demand has made it necessary to enlarge the quota for local sale to 55 per cent., commencing on 12th inst. The weekly output of butter in New South Wales now ranges between 36,000 and 38,000 boxes weekly. Shipping facilities have been good, and no stocks are accumulating.

Melbourne.—The quota for local sale was fixed at 55 per cent., but this turned out to be below requirements, and the figure must advance. Supplies show a shrinkage. Arrivals for the week ending February 2 total 21,535 boxes butter and 47 tons cream.

Brisbane.—Last week's production is estimated at 15,366 boxes butter, the slight decrease being accounted for by heavy rain, but the result of this will be fuller supplies in the near future. The quota for local requirements is unchanged at 25 per cent.

RAILWAY MARKET.

A dull market, with easier rates, prevailed for forage lines at Alexandria on Saturday. Buyers were few, and no more than 4/1 was procurable for wheaten chaff; while oaten chaff, at its best, made 4/. Lucerne was dull, and no potato sales were held.

MINING.

A STRONG MARKET.

RECOVERING IN WESTONIAS.

Though not overmuch business was passing in mining scrip on the Stock Exchange on Saturday, values, nevertheless, showed generally stronger tendencies, and, with the exception of Kampongs, all stocks claiming active business changed hands at improved rates. Business was evenly divided between Westonian gold propositions and Malay tin interests, with Hampdens and Junction Norths having odd deals.

Hampdens at 32/3, put on /6 from earlier in the week, though unchanged bids were on offer. Morgans had buyers at an increase of /6.

In many cases Barriers held identical quotations with the previous day, the only notable change being advanced bids for Junction Norths, which resulted in an advance after change to 8/8. For six weeks' delivery 8/10 was accepted, but near the closing hour for a cash deal the price was reduced to 8/7.

Ratruts found good support, and operators began with an advance of /3 to 15/6 for cash and six weeks' bookings, while parcels continued to clear, with values moving up to 15/10½. Kampongs, however, lost /9 to 22/9.

A healthier tone existed for Westonias, and after Friday's bear raid recoveries were effected in Deeps and Consols. Operators contented themselves in the case of Deeps, with transactions on six weeks' terms, which landed finally at 6/4, recovery of about /4. The contributing issue of Consols also manifested a stronger trend, and besides putting on /5 for their opening sale at 7/10, another /2 was gained during the morning.

NOTES.

The Yodda Valley Gold Company, having acquired the well-known Long Tunnel mine, Gundagai, has changed its name to the Gundagai Long Tunnel Gold Mine, N.L. The weekly report states that the necessary preliminary work to put the mine in good working order is being carried out. Ore showing gold is being raised for the battery. Mr. J. G. Hepburn, of Perth, a well-known and competent miner, has been appointed manager, and will arrive in a few days to take charge of the mine.

The Papuan mine has declared a dividend of 3d, payable on February 27.

Mining in the Burraga district is beginning to liven up. The Abercrombie copper mine has commenced operations in many of its departments, and it is expected that within the next fortnight the mine will be producing copper. When things are in full swing about 200 men will be employed. At present 100 men are working. The Torbane shale mines are again working.

The B.H. Block 10 Company's return for the four weeks ended January 31 states:—Treated 5344 tons of crude ore for a production of 876 tons of concentrates, assaying 36.1oz silver, 61.1 per cent. lead, and 8 per cent. zinc.

A further report from our correspondent at Charter's Towers, referring to the crushing of 287 tons at the Papuans Gold Mine states that the total yield was valued at £2764.

Chillagoe, Limited, reports that the railway receipts for January amounted to £1650.

N.S.W. MOLYBDENITE PRODUCTION.

Mr. J. E. Scantlebury writes:—

Sir,—Producers of molybdenite will be ever grateful to Mr. E. C. Andrews for his excellent work on the molybdenum industry in New South Wales, and the wolfram and scheelite producers would be equally pleased if the Government Geologist, Mr. J. E. Carne, could bring his work of some years back on the tungsten mining industry up-to-date.

An explanation of the serious falling off in the New South Wales molybdenite production—32 tons in 1915, and 53 tons last year—is necessary in defence of our molybdenite resources. The output of 1915 represents little more than that sent away in ore from one mine, while that of last year is less than its present production.

Within a few months of the war, because of the appeal of the British Government, through our High Commissioner, and the price offered, viz., £6/10/ and £7 a unit—hundreds of Australian miners started to look for molybdenite. Numerous deposits were discovered, and treatment plants were erected in Sydney and elsewhere. But before arrangements were complete to get an already assured greater output on to the market all shipments were held up for several months, and of course, thus hobbled, the industry languished—mines shut up, plants shut down, and production fell down to 32 tons. Then, in September, 1915, came the Federal proclamation, by which shipments were only allowed provided the ore or concentrates contained not less than 80 per cent. molybdenite, and not more than ½ per cent. bismuth. This enabled only the little high-grade molybdenite mines, without bismuth, to work and ship. Towards the end of last year the grade was lowered to 80 per cent., and the bismuth restriction removed, hence the production increased to 53 tons.

It is now nearly two years since I publicly declared that by holding up our molybdenite and other invaluable, indispensable munition metals, we were playing into the hands of Germany as much as if we held up our troopships. I have since repeated this indictment, and have offered to go to gaol if my statements in respect to the crippling of Australia's rare metal industry were not true. Producers throughout Australia naturally want to know who has done this? In London we are told that it was all done at the behest of certain people in Australia, where we are told it was done under instructions from the Imperial authorities. We ask which is correct? Both cannot be.

That a serious wrong was committed is confessed in the silent withdrawal of the embargo in respect to grade and presence of bismuth.

Sooner or later everything must be disclosed.

Federal legislators, Labour and Liberal, have assured me that they will insist on a thorough inquiry as soon as they reassemble.

It is the aim of the Rare Metal Producers' Association to see that this is done.

Had the molybdenite industry, in which Australia was supreme, and held the record from its inception, been left alone, its production would have greatly increased with the increased price only given to foreign countries, and now that the unwarranted disabilities have been removed, I predict that this year's New South Wales output will be four times greater than in 1915, when the industry was crippled.

I also foreshadow that it will eventually be generally acknowledged that in Australia a great war covers a greater multitude of sins than charity.

WESTERN AUSTRALIAN OUTPUTS.

KALGOORLIE, Saturday.

The January outputs include:—

Boulder, 17,697 tons, valued £45,788; expenditure, £22,350.

Fingall, 3829 tons, valued £8782; expenditure, £7756.

Lake View and Star, 16,205 tons, valued £17,572; expenditure, £17,350.

BRITISH BROKEN HILL COMPANY.

The report of the directors of the British Broken Hill Proprietary Company for the half-year ended June 30, 1916, states that, after payment of the administration expenses for the half-year and writing off £3352 for depreciation of the general mine plant, a net balance of £180 has to be deducted from the balance of profit brought forward from the previous half-year, leaving £34,979 to be carried forward. The liquid assets on June 30, as shown by the balance-sheet (including stores, concentrates, etc., on hand at cost and deducting liabilities), amounted to £67,372. The sum of £11,465 due on adjustment account from the German buyers of concentrates, is not included in that amount, but a claim has been registered with the Public Trustee against the assets in his possession formerly belonging to Beer, Sondheimer, and Co.

From old workings on the upper levels of Block 15, 3350 tons of carbonate ore were obtained during the half-year, and the proceeds therefrom and from the stock of lead concentrates on hand at the outbreak of the war have altogether produced £41,268. A considerable quantity of this valuable carbonate ore remains to be extracted. The zinc concentrates on hand have been sold during the half-year on satisfactory terms through the medium of the Zinc Producers' Association Proprietary, Limited. Since the issue of the last report the directors have continued to make unremitting efforts to secure a suitable outlet for the company's production of lead and zinc concentrates, with a view to the resumption of milling operations, and in this connection have had to deal with a situation of the greatest difficulty. With respect to lead concentrates, the production of which is the primary source of the company's revenue, and which must be produced before zinc concentrates are available, offers were received for the purchase of the output, which the directors would have been prepared to entertain, but the Commonwealth Government, notwithstanding all the representations that have been made to it, has refused to remove its embargo upon the export of lead concentrates during the war, and as regards its attitude after the war, has declined to furnish any statement beyond a general indication that their policy will be directed to ensuring that all metalliferous ores produced in Australia shall be treated within the Commonwealth. Under these embarrassing circumstances, the directors have felt compelled to enter into a smelting agreement with the Broken Hill Associated Smelters' Proprietary, Limited, whose enlarged plant at Port Pirie is now capable of treating the company's full output. This arrangement should come into operation early in the new year, and in the meantime active preparations are being made to restart the mills. As one of the conditions, the company has agreed to subscribe £30,000 of shares in the capital of the Associated Smelters in order to secure the advantages in terms that accrue from a participation in the results. Notwithstanding the immediate benefits to be derived from restarting work at the present prices of metals, the directors do not disguise from the shareholders that in committing the company to the treatment of their lead concentrates at Port Pirie for a period exceeding the probable life of the mine they are acting with considerable reluctance, in view of the relatively high cost of smelting in Australia, but the complications arising from the existing war conditions and the uncertainty created by the attitude of the Commonwealth Government, have left the board with no practical alternative. With respect to zinc concentrates, the company has now joined the Zinc Producers' Association, and from the recommencement of milling the entire output will be controlled by and realised through that association.

MANAGERS' REPORTS.

The managing director of the Amalgamated Hill End mine reports for the month of January:—Resumed operations on the 8th, since which the north lower tunnel level has been extended 52ft, and the face is now 215ft beyond Fischer and Beard's crosscourse. This work is being carried out for the Central Company, and the drive is now well into their ground. It is carrying a three to six inch vein. The last breaking-down was poor, but some gold is starting to make again, and the average of the stone broken is about an ounce to the ton. Have unwatered and connected the winze sunk on the mica vein below the tunnel level, and started stoping from No. 1 winze, but so far have not broken down the vein. Have one machine drill in the mica vein stope north of the crosscourse, and have some 20 tons broken. Owing to the erratic character of the gold its average value cannot be told. Have also started to secure the old Star of Peace stopes, and make a truckway from the lower tunnel level to the old Star of Peace shaft. It is most essential that this shaft should be sunk another lift, and with that object in view a catchment has been made in it about 100ft above the bottom level, so as to turn all the water coming down the shaft into the depleted stopes south of it.

The manager of the Mount Morgan Gold-mining Company reports for the four weeks ended February 3:—The furnaces treated 16,424 tons Mount Morgan ore, 2617 tons Many Peaks ore, 2419 tons concentrates, 6 tons purchased ore, 9 tons copper precipitate, for a production of 606 tons blister copper, containing 685.23 tons copper, 7753.60oz gold. It is estimated that this production includes 44.67 tons copper and 37.14oz gold from Many Peaks, and 4.75 tons copper and 69.64oz gold from purchased ore and copper precipitate. The concentrator treated 9169 tons ore, and produced 2896 tons concentrates, estimated to contain 191 tons copper and 2411oz gold. In addition to the above production there is on hand matte containing 30 tons copper and 390oz gold. A fatal accident underground and a holiday affected the output.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMPETITIONS.

At the Randwick Rifle Range on Saturday chief interest centred in the fourth round of the Public Service Shields' competition. In the A grade the Tramway club—aggregate 1898 points—leads the Post and Telegraph club by 31 points. The Public Works Department head the B grade aggregate.

In addition to the shields' competition 28 clubs were allotted targets. No high scores were recorded during the day, as a variable choppy wind interfered with the marksmen, especially at the longer ranges. Details:—

TRADES AND LABOUR.

FEDERATED STOREMEN.

The Federated Storemen and Packers' Union at a special meeting on Wednesday night agreed to affiliate with the Political Labour League under the provisions embodied under rule 63, in place of rule 18 as hitherto. The advantage gained by the adoption of the new rule is that each member of the union will have the privilege of voting in all trade union matters in the local branch of the P.L.L., in place of having to voice his convictions through the delegates to the annual conference.

DAYLIGHT SAVING.

The Daylight Saving Bill was condemned by some of the members of the Milk and Ice Carters and Dairymen's Union at a meeting on Thursday night. They claimed that it was a disadvantage to them.

COLLIERY MECHANICS.

The compulsory conference between representatives of the Colliery Mechanics' Association and the colliery owners, in connection with certain claims advanced by the former, has concluded.

Mr. C. M. McDonald, secretary of the Northern Coal Owners' Association, stated at the close of the conference that the owners had agreed to advance the rates of pay to men now receiving less than 12s a day by 20 per cent.; those receiving 12s a day by 17½ per cent.; and men already in receipt of a wage beyond that amount will receive an additional 10 per cent.

The principal controversy hinged on clause 8, which provided for a working day of eight hours exclusive of meal time for craftsmen only for the first five days of each week, and six hours inclusive of meals on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays. The proprietors made an early intimation that they were willing to effect a compromise between 46 and 48 hours, but the men's representatives insisted upon the entire concession, pointing out that the stand they had taken was a reasonable one in view of the nature of the work performed. Eventually an arrangement was agreed to by both parties by which certain proposals, the nature of which was not divulged, to meet the situation, were to be put before the members of the Mechanics' Association by their representatives. The latter also agreed, with regard to the question set out in clause 9, as to whether the employees of Hexham works and East Greta Junction, who are members of the union, shall be included in the agreement, to refer the matter to Mr. Justice Edmunds for decision. The whole of the decisions arrived at, which were entirely favourable to the men, will be placed before the coal mechanics for ratification.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

During the 24 hours ended 9 a.m. on Saturday the high pressure lost over one-tenth of an inch in barometric values, and has weakened generally. This weakening is very noticeable over Queensland, where monsoonal conditions are more in evidence than on the previous day. The "high" as a whole has moved eastwards about 500 miles, the centre now being situated to the south-east of Tasmania. Owing to the absence of data from Western Australia, we cannot say how the Antarctic disturbance, which was situated in the south-west corner of that State on Friday, has developed.

From the present distribution of pressure we may expect a continuance of fine, warm, and sultry weather, with north-east winds.

WAR QUESTIONS.

"S.W." (Woollahra).—Leave out the line 9th Brigade. The rest is correct.

"Constant Reader" (Sydney) and "A.E.H." (Enmore).—Nothing definite has yet been settled. When it is applicants will be informed where to apply.

"Perplexed" (Mosman).—Cut out the brigade and the words "on active service."

"Lenoir" (Taree).—Write, giving his full name, address, date when he enlisted, etc., to the Base Records Office, Melbourne.

"Norma" (Bondi).—(a) If he left from New South Wales you can find out from the Records Office, Victoria Barracks. If from any other part of the Commonwealth you must apply to Base Records, Melbourne. Had you given us his name and full details we could have saved you a lot of trouble. (b) You must use his old address, putting in the top left-hand corner of the envelope of parcel the words "Last reported wounded and in hospital."

"E.J.N." (Barraba).—The regulations state that friends of prisoners of war are advised to send postcards in preference to letters, as postcards are less likely to be delayed. If letters are sent they should not exceed in length two sides of a sheet of notepaper, and should contain nothing but the sheet of notepaper. The writing should not be crossed. Letters to prisoners of war in Turkey must not contain more than four lines of writing. Correspondence should have been limited to private and family news, and to necessary business communications, and should not be sent too frequently. No references to the naval, military, or political situation, or to naval and military movements and organisation, are allowed. Letters containing such references will not be delivered. You must address only in the following manner:—Number, rank, initials, name, regiment (or other unit) in the case of naval or military prisoners only, British, Australian (or French, etc.) Prisoner of War, Germany, c.o. General Post Office, Mount Pleasant, London, E.C. No other address will be accepted.

"Questions" (St. Peters).—You must never use initials. Every word must be written in full, such as "Australian Divisional Base Details, Australian Post Office Section." You can use this address as long as you preface it with his number, name, rank, and battalion.

"L.H."—Leave out 2nd Divisional Train and write "Australian Army Service Corps, Australian Imperial Force, Abroad," in full.

"Anxious Mother."—According to the order published in the "Herald" a few days ago, the military clothing must be returned immediately.

"B.J.G." (Camden).—In addressing your brother cut out the line 14th Infantry Brigade; the second address is perfectly correct and needs no alteration.

"S.H." (Burwood).—You can leave out the line "Motor Transport," then it will be correct.

"J.C." (Mascot).—(1) Give his number, rank, name, 49th Battalion, Australian Divisional Base Details, care of Australian Post Office, British Expeditionary Forces Abroad. Every word must be written in full, but no name of a country is to be used. (2) The best thing you can do is to call and see the enrolling officer, Victoria Barracks, and put the case before him. You would receive a sympathetic hearing in such a case.

In the list of bursaries award to pupils of metropolitan schools published in Saturday's issue the name of Alfred C. Ternes, of St. Joseph's School, Camperdown, was omitted. The bursary is tenable at St. Joseph's College, Hunter's Hill.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

Entries for the half-dozen events on the card for the Moorefield February meeting on the 24th inst. close with the secretary, Mr. H. R. Evans, at 4 p.m. to-day. The prize money totals 600 sovs., equally distributed.

The New South Wales Trotting Club holds a meeting on the Epping racecourse this afternoon, and the programme to be discussed promises interesting sport. Numerous entries have been received, and include a number of good performers. The usual tram service to Annandale, Balmain, and Lilyfield stops at the racecourse gates, and the first race is timed to start at 1.30 p.m.

Up to 4 p.m. to-day, the secretary, Mr. Edwin Woodbury, will receive nominations for the half-dozen events listed for the meeting of the Menangle Park Racing Club on the 20th inst., and for which the sum of 320 sovs. prize money has been provided.

The two-year-old colt Tatyoon, who gained the winning list at Canterbury Park on Saturday, was bred in Victoria by the veteran sportsman Mr. W. Leonard, and is by the imported horse Blankney II. (son of Flying Fox and Tagale), from Fedan, by Wallace from Moriaca, by Splendor (imp.) from La Mauresque, by Maribyrnong from Algeria (imp.), by Blinkhoolie. Tatyoon, who is trained at Randwick by T. Payten, is raced by his breeder in partnership with Mr. Agar Wynne. The youngster started favourite at a shade of odds on in a field of 17, and, taking charge in the first furlong, did not afterwards leave the issue in doubt, winning in hollow fashion from Malt Maid, who was the only other horse backed for money, and who escorted him all the way.

The card for the pony and galloway meeting to be held by the Rosebery Racing Club on Saturday next demands the attention of owners of ponies and galloways to-day, for at 5 p.m. nominations must be in the hands of the secretary, Mr. J. Underhill. The prize money aggregates 750 sovs., distributed over seven events.

Though there were only seven starters for the Canterbury Handicap on Saturday, the race was regarded as very open, and there was solid backing for Challenge Crosse, Gai, and Medley, while Loved One also commanded good support. Challenge Crosse, who had a slight market call, took charge a mile from home, and held his place until well in line for home; but ere the distance was reached Blackacre found an opening on the rails, of which he took advantage, and, heading the favourite at that point, beat him comfortably at the end, while Medley was beaten out of a place. The success of the son of Linacre was a good turn up for the ringmen, who up to then had all the worst of the financial deal.

The Australian Trotting Club holds its next meeting at Victoria Park on the 19th inst., and for the six items on the card entries are invited by the secretary, Mr. H. Cobcroft, up to 8 p.m. to-day. The prize money totals 310 sovs.

The Hobartville-bred filly Bernalda, by imported Bernard from Carbelle, by Carbine from Tourbillion by Robinson Crusoe, lost her maiden qualification at Canterbury Park on Saturday by securing the Maiden Handicap, for which, in a field of 14, she started a warm favourite. Bernalda had the strength of the opposition ere half the trip had been covered, and scored comfortably from the Perambulator (imp.) gelding Euluwirri.

Wolaroi, Baldpate, and Hecate have departed for Melbourne. Wolaroi's main mission will be the V.R.C. St. Leger, and probably the other two will be given a chance at the suburban meetings.

The first totalisator in New South Wales, under the new Act, is to be run at Kembla Grange to-morrow, when 5/ and 10/ machines will be in operation. The totalisator houses are finished, and the Tasmanian machine is to be used.

The southern district bred horse Dave Whitton, by imported Sir Whitton, scored his second win in metropolitan company at Canterbury Park on Saturday in the Flying Handicap, for which, in a field of seven, that good performer Inia left the paddock at a shade of odds on, while Dave Whitton was the only other backed for money. The favourite made the running to the home turn, where Dave Whitton joined issue, and heading her at the distance, beat her easily in the run home. Dave Whitton has done most of his racing in the southern district, where he has earned several winning brackets.

VICTORIAN TRAINING NOTES.

CAULFIELD.

MELBOURNE, Saturday.

The weather was dull and threatening this morning, and it was quite dark at a quarter past 6 o'clock. As soon as it got light, at half-past 6, there was a rush to get the work done. The consequence was that there were 30 or 40 horses on the tracks at one time, which made it most difficult to time all of them. Vibratory made her way over nine furlongs in 2m 8s, and she was going at her ease. Pontormo and Happy Moments were outside even time for five furlongs. Three went up the side for three furlongs in 43½s. Whitefield and Balmoral finished up six furlongs on top of the hill in 1m 30s, and Sunbury ran it to the winning post in 1m 24s. Court Jester and Meroo were not out to make time for nine furlongs in 2m 4½s. Nicanor and Remmon spurted four furlongs in 53s; Patrobas went in great style for nine furlongs in 1m 57s, and beat Tongorogan badly over the last five furlongs. Shepherd King did a good working gallop of a mile in 1m 52s. Lost Time ran the last four furlongs of five in 51s; Bombita and Rushford started off for a mile gallop, but the latter came into collision with another horse, and lost his rider, leaving Bombita to finish alone in 1m 53s. Rushford did not meet with any harm by the accident. Poitrina sprinted five furlongs in 1m 5s, done comfortably, and others to run that distance were Ranger in 1m 9s, Dhuldul 1m 5s, Lady Egale and Boureong 1m 5s, Cerealia 1m 8¼s, and Great Caesar in 1m 8¾s. Sir Paddington went smartly for four furlongs in 50s; Maltravers was going in a leisurely manner for a mile and a quarter in 2m 21s; Aleconner had no trouble in running a mile in 1m 53s, and Tom Castro in travelling a furlong more in 2m 3½s. Admirable Bob beat Lardnor over a mile in 1m 48s. Anttoil and Franzac spurted four furlongs in 50s, and Grand Alliance was 1m 13s for a furlong more. William the Silent ran away from Onazer for a mile in 1m 47¾s, the English horse being ridden out. Dame Acre spurted five furlongs in 1m 4s.

FLEMINGTON.

BALARANG SHAPES WELL.

The weather was fine, but very overcast, on Saturday morning, when all the tracks were available, and were good going, and there was a considerable amount of galloping. A number of horses worked before they could be distinguished, and the light was bad throughout the morning. Newton Stewart, and what was taken as being Arrowform, ran five furlongs in 1m 6s; while Peroxide and Quillion were one and a quarter seconds longer for the same distance. Burnley and Panoptes went strongly, and Green Cap strode along on the tan at an even time pace, and Stageland, who looks well on his work, went along for nine furlongs on the tan, done comfortably in 2m 6s, and Cherubini, after striding alone at a smart pace for about a mile, did the last five furlongs in 1m 11½s. Moolang (R. N. Smart) ran six furlongs in 1m 20½s. Ipoh strode along at over an even time pace. Pretty Bobby (D. M'Coll) went in his best style for a mile and a quarter on the tan in 2m 15s, the last mile being done in 1m 48½s. Saltaire (L. A. Walker) beat Miss King (W. Crockett) by several lengths, over six furlongs, on the course proper, which was very fast going, in the smart time of 1m 17s. Folly Queen, assisted for the last two furlongs by the Bronzino—Cola colt, did well to run five furlongs on the tan in 1m 6s. Allyerra was pacing. Captain Standish finished several lengths in front of St. Vins, over six furlongs in 1m 20s, and they were going very smartly in the early stages, while Hotfoot ran the same distance in 1s slower time. Carrigan and Sara Allgood spurted half a mile in 55s. Duverney strode along for a mile. Mettlesome was going better than Strident for seven furlongs on the tan in 1m 37½s. Prince Bardolph and Harriet Graham went well in a soundly run gallop once round in 2m 31½s, the last mile and a quarter occupying 2m 17½s, and the last mile 1m 49½s. Sister Patience (C. O'Reilly) ran a mile on the tan in 1m 49½s. Highfield (J. Killorn) had no difficulty in running a mile on the tan in 1m 48s, and Half-a-Glass (R. N. Smart) was going comfortably for a furlong further in 2m 5s. Hoprig went strongly, and Coronatus ran eleven furlongs on the tan in 2m 40s, being followed by Canadium. Balarang (W. Crockett) went in great style for half a mile on the course proper in the exceptionally good time of 49¼s, which is almost a record for this particular distance, and he was not ridden out to do it. Lingle strode along on the course proper, and spurted home the last two furlongs in 25s. Holcroft also strode along. Bolador (F. Harmer) was fully extended for six furlongs in 1m 20¼s. Pelin went at even time speed. River Tame ran the last seven of eight furlongs on the tan in 1m 42s. Musk Star and Mutina spurted three furlongs in 40½s, and Andelosia was striding along, as was Calbye. Sir Diff was also pacing, his last six furlongs being done in 1m 27½s, while [illegible] got over five furlongs in 1m 10s, and Chance Elite (R. Horne) ran the latter distance in 1m 7s.

RESTRICTION OF RACE MEETINGS.

PERTH (W.A.), Sunday.

In explaining the reasons why the Betting Suppression Bill had been dropped by the Government, the Colonial Secretary, Mr. Colebatch, stated that steps would be taken forthwith to restrict the number of race meetings, by limiting the number of days on which the totalisator may be employed. Should any club now using the totalisator attempt to thwart the intentions of the Government by racing with the bookmaker on days other than on which the use of the totalisator is permitted, the Government would not hesitate to take extreme steps.

DISTURBANCE AT PYRMONT.

Shortly after 8 o'clock on Saturday night a free fight, lasting for some considerable time, occurred near No. 5 Government wharf, Darling Island. A party of seamen, amongst who was a negro, was walking along, when the latter was hit upon the head with a bottle, which had apparently been thrown by a member of another company. A heated argument ensued, and eventually the parties came to blows. The Pyrmont police were notified, and Constable Adams was despatched to the scene of battle. He, however, had very little trouble in quelling the disturbance, as the crowd dispersed when he fired a shot in the air.

NEGLECTED MAROUBRA.

Discussion arose at a meeting of the Randwick Ratepayers' Progress and Defence Association, held at Maroubra, over the many promises given by the Government to remit to the people of Randwick and Kensington, through the local municipal council, the sum of £1600 towards the construction of Maroubra Bay surf pavilion. It was stated that, although the first promise had been made by the State Government five years ago, not a penny had, up to the present, been received.

Further, it was announced that the local Parliamentary representative for the district had been unable to get sufficient money to make a start with the short tram extension through Government land to the beach. It was agreed to arrange a public meeting at an early date to protest against the action of the Government in not putting this work in hand. Mr. David Storey, M.L.A. (honorary Minister, and member for the district) is to be asked to be present.

HOTEL, COUNTRY, the like of which is rarely, if ever, on the market. It is without a doubt the very best business offering in N.S.W., and it can be bought at a price far below present market value. We do not presume to know the clear net profits per annum, but after studying the takings, trade, etc., we fully believe that you, like ourselves, will have ample justification for assuming that there is £1200 per annum or over in it. However, that is a matter the Vendor will allow you to inquire into, no matter how far you may wish to extend investigation. LEASE has about 7 years to run, at a weekly rental of £5. TAKINGS £120 weekly, nearly all bar trade. There is certainly a fair housetrade at 10/ per day, but it is not by any means a big one. Situated in a delightful locality, surrounded by the richest agricultural land, is the leading house, and has been many, many years without a change. Full particulars supplied to bona fide buyers. Cash, say, £1500, £1600, £1900.
